WOODWARD

THREE

DIMENSIONS

Books are at the center of most learning experiences at Woodward. In our library can be found approximately 20,000 books representing an investment of about $80,000. The purchase of an additional 1,500 books each year serves in building and maintaining the academic requirements of Woodward students.

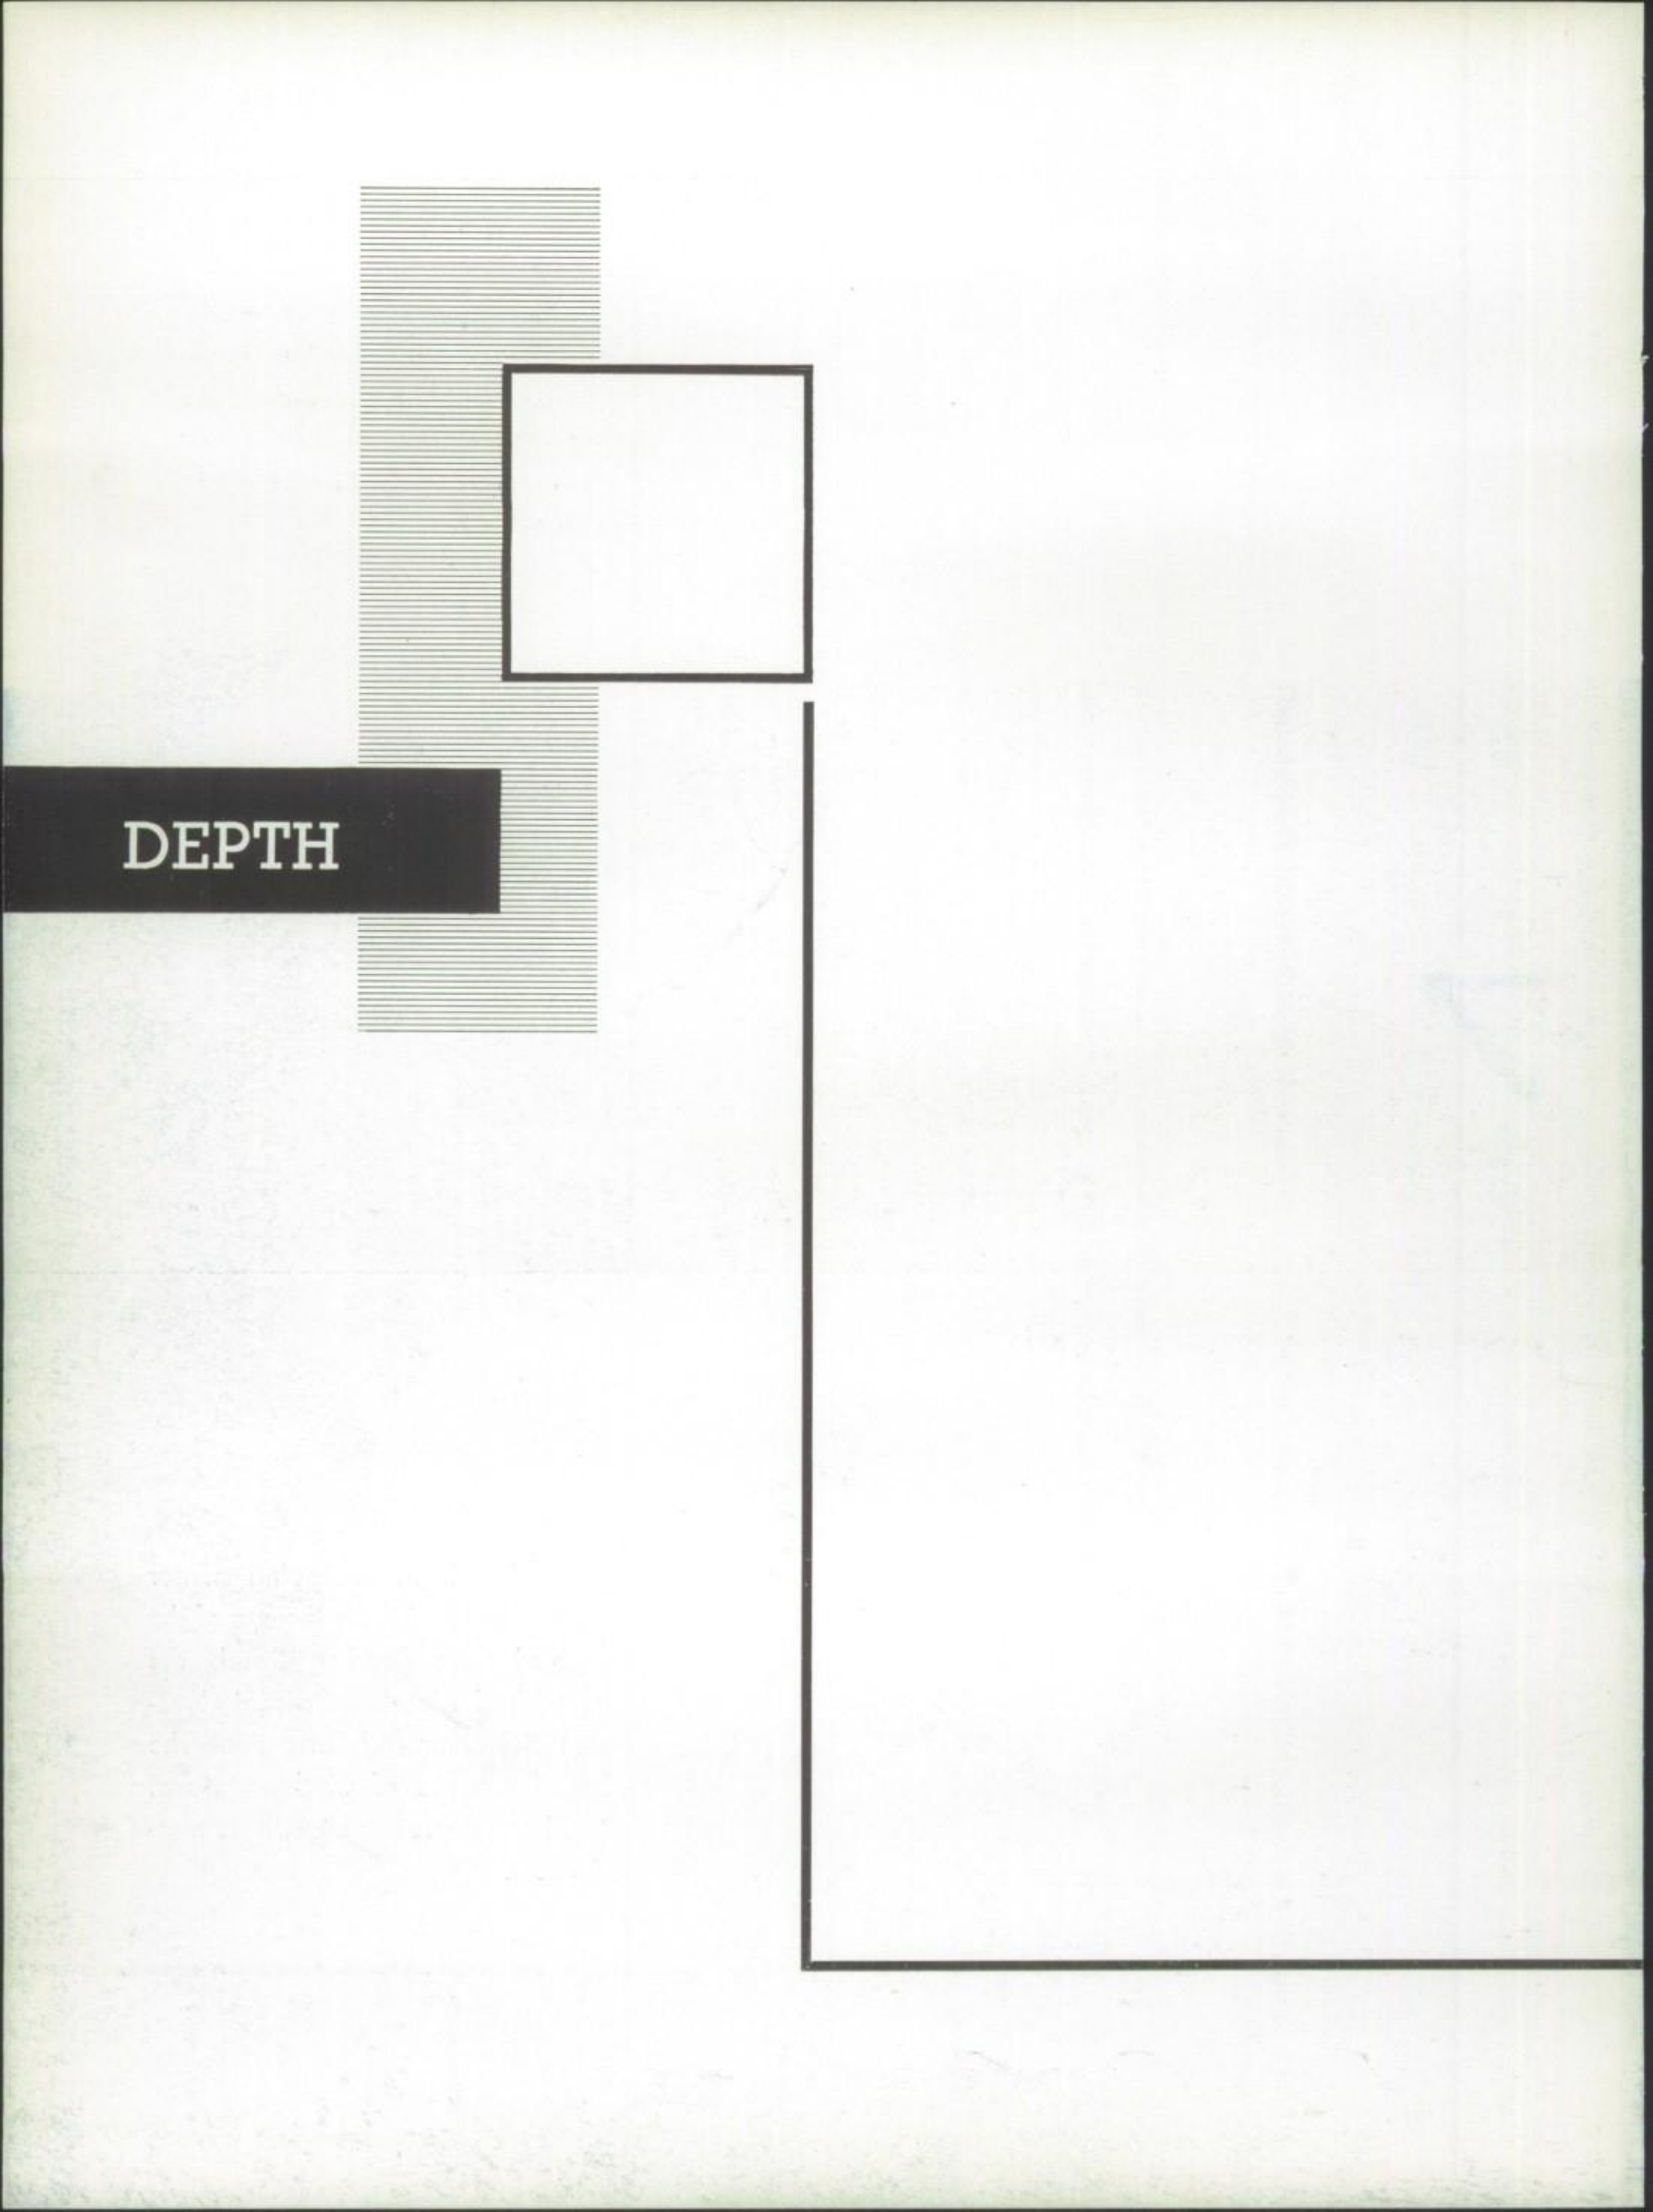

BREADTH

Even though the shopping center offers competition for the eye of the passer-by on Reading Road, the breadth of Woodward's front elevation still commands attention. The broad expanse of windows, stone, and brick impresses all with its massiveness.

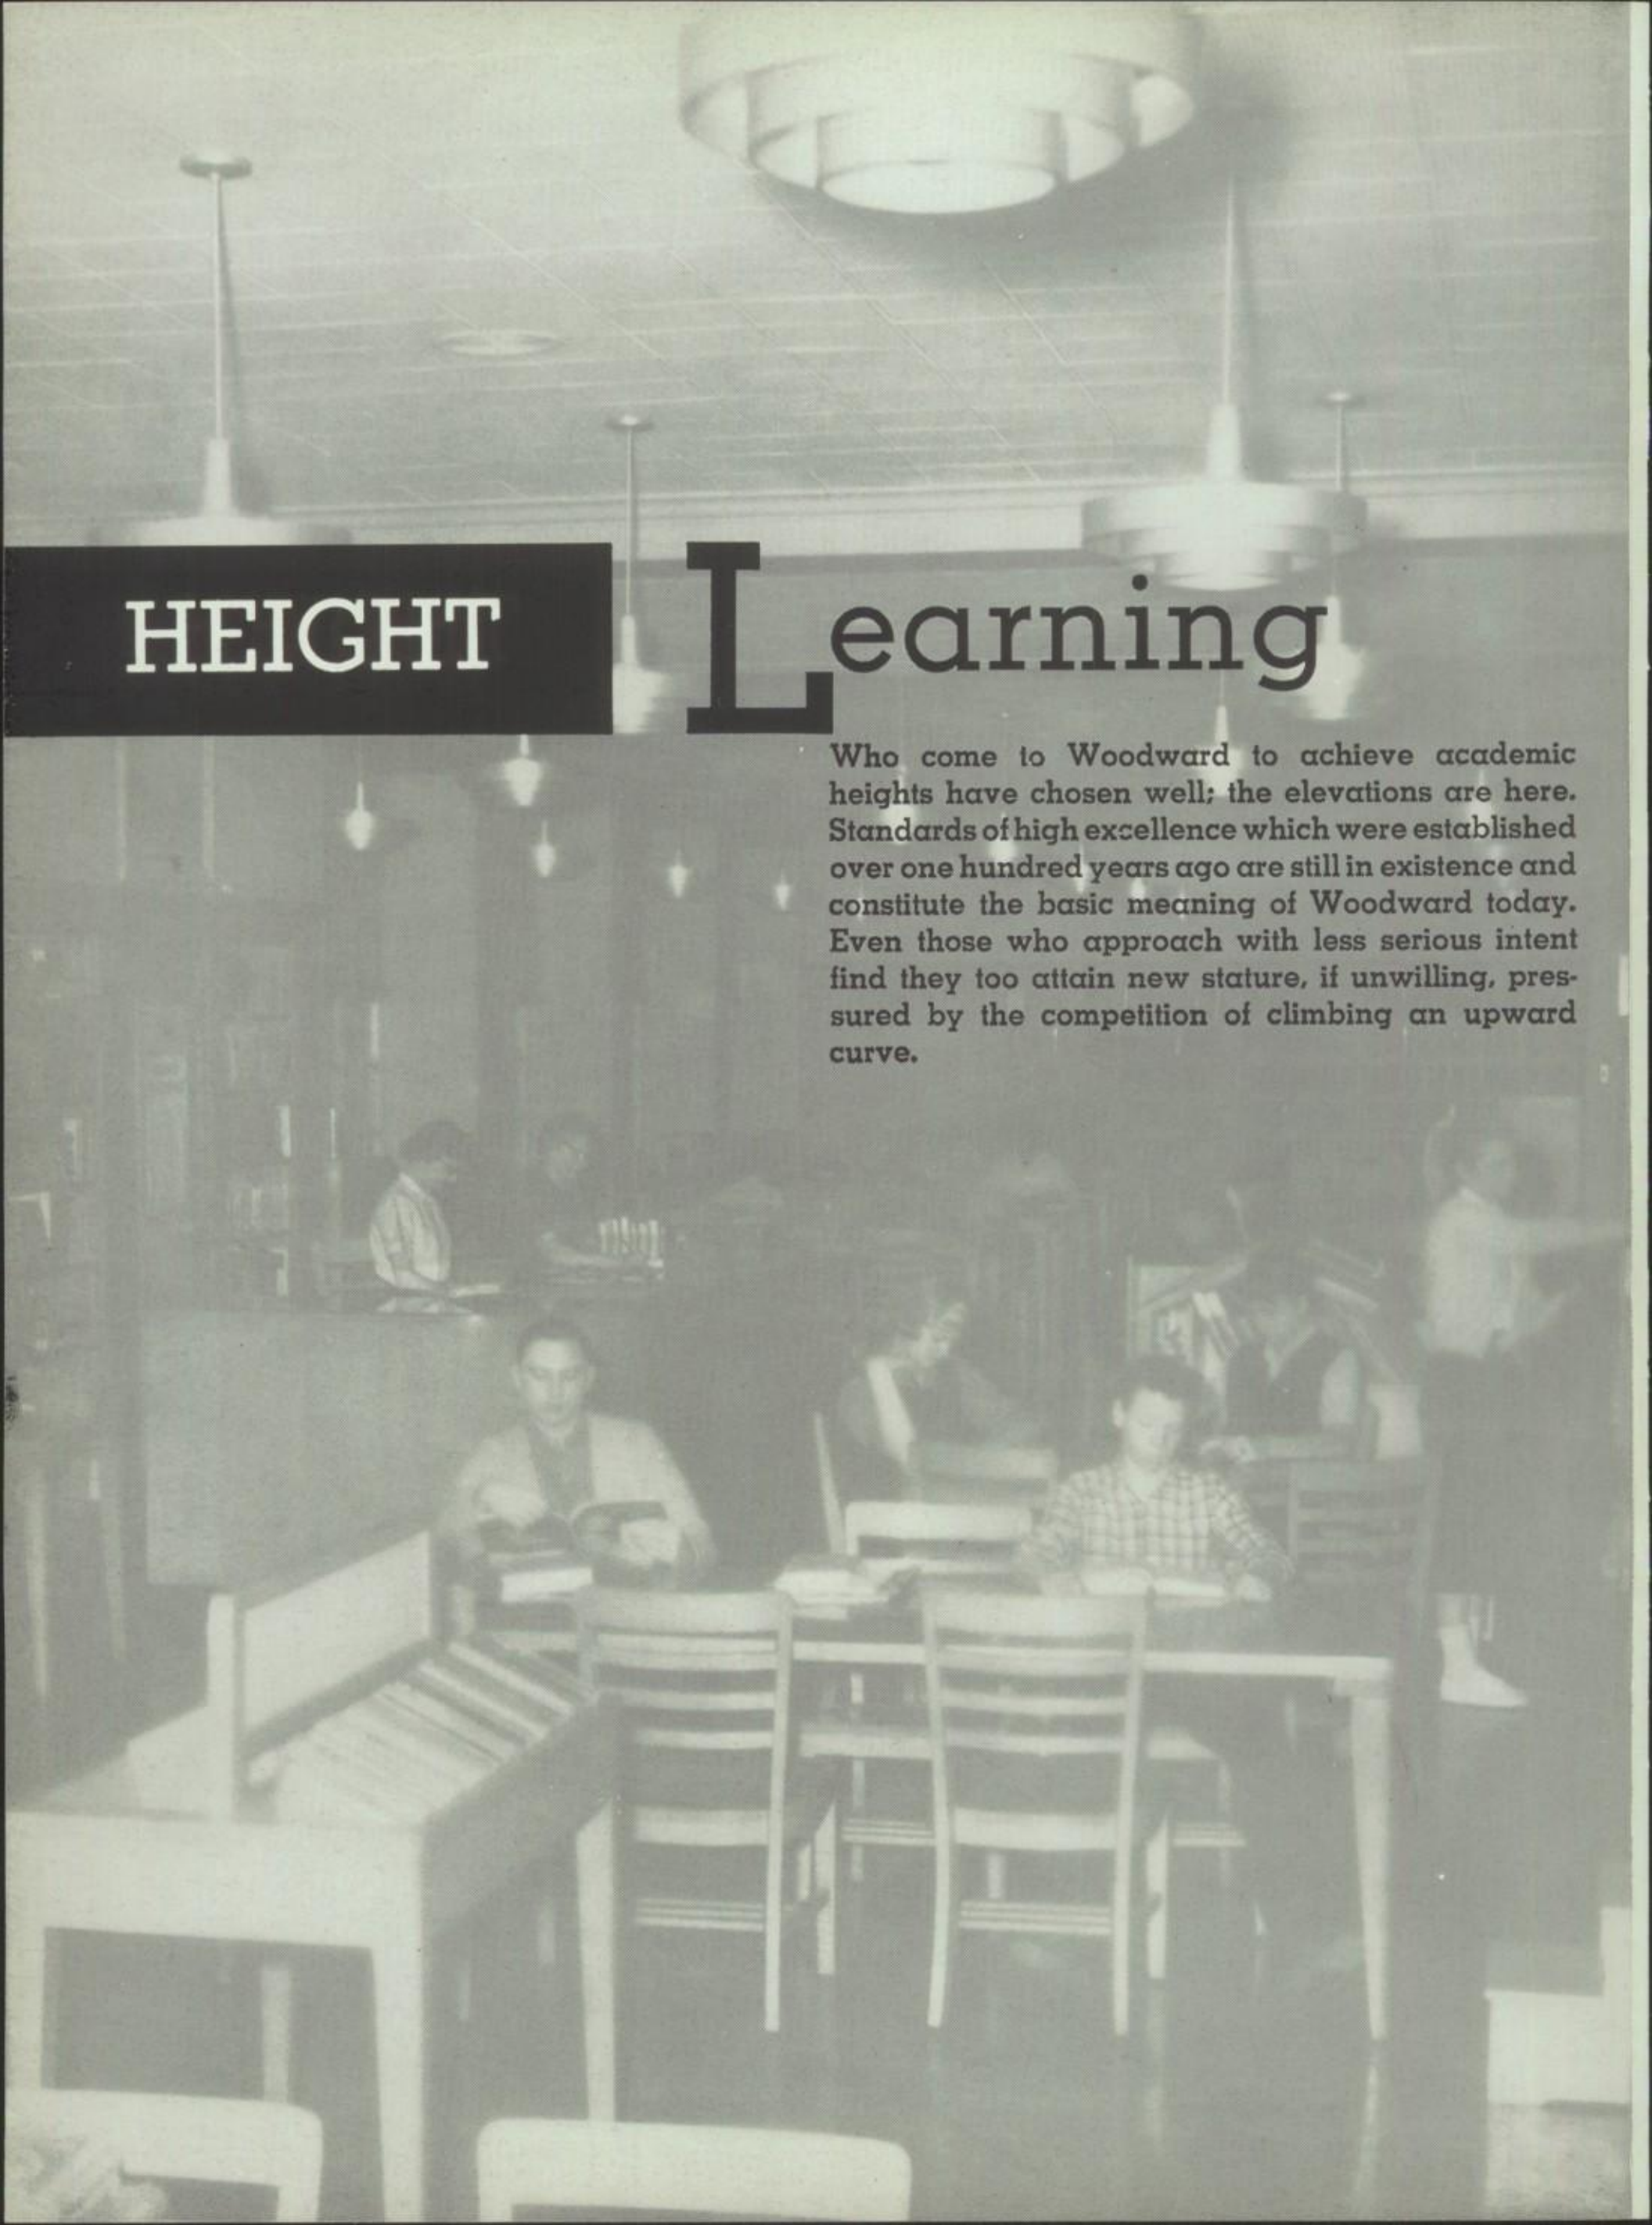

DEPTH

Far-reaching opportunities are offered through extra-curricular activities. One major activity at Woodward is the 70-piece marching band. After long and hard work the band entertained at pep assemblies and half-times with precision formations and stirring music.

Learning

Who come to Woodward to achieve academic heights have chosen well; the elevations are here. Standards of high excellence which were established over one hundred years ago are still in existence and constitute the basic meaning of Woodward today. Even those who approach with less serious intent find they too attain new stature, if unwilling, pressured by the competition of climbing an upward curve.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

The roll of the administration is to plan the over-all operation of the school as well as to supervise it. The administration interprets the policy created by the Board of Education while the faculty carries out this program to the students. No school is better than the faculty; no faculty is better than the administration.

The theme of the 1959 TREASURES, "The Three Dimensions of Woodward," is very very timely. The great interest of the American people in the current discussion of whether or not the modern high school is efficient indicates the importance of setting forth the dimensions of the responsibilities faced by the school. An institution cannot perform its functions effectively if its purposes have not been clearly specified, and as our community has not previously defined the purposes of Woodward, we welcome the efforts of the TREASURES.

Intellectual growth is the first dimension which must concern teachers and students. The school provides the learner with the conditions and the help needed to recognize problems, to use efficacious means of arriving at solutions, and to carry these solutions into appropriate action. Intellectual growth is only attainable by those who acquire facility in the fundamental skills of learning. Therefore, the abilities to speak and write with clarity, to listen and read with understanding, to use mathematics intelligently in practical life situations—all must be a primary responsibility. Another prerequisite to intellectual growth is an understanding of and the ability to cope with the world in which we live. A concern for the wise use of the resources that provide for man's needs is necessary if we are to appreciate those aspects of our surroundings which have social significance and contribute to a happy and useful life.

The second dimension of Woodward's program is the effort to aid in fostering in the individual the moral and spiritual values of the society in which we live. Teaching a student to respect, to understand, and to live well with others is a prime concern of the school. The establishment of habits of honesty, truthfulness, respect for the rights of others, loyalty to family, friends and society are but a few of the ethical values toward which we strive in all facets of the program.

The third dimension of Woodward's responsibility is concerned with the development and maintenance of physical and mental health. It is obvious in working toward this goal that this is a widely-shared responsibility, for an individual's health needs are dependent upon the good health and safety practices of his fellow pupils, of his community and his nation, and even of the world community of nations. The school also encounters limitations in promoting each student's emotional well-being. Certainly, we attempt to give each learner the feeling that he is wanted and important. The great wealth of opportunities and the variety of worthwhile experiences offered in the total program are an effort to provide for the needs of each individual. We are certain that if students have warm and pleasant feeling for their school we shall more nearly reach the goals toward which we strive.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPALS

Mr. Arthur Vigard, who has been assistant principal of Woodward Senior High School since 1956, has a variety of responsibilities, the majority being classified as supervisory duties and administrative activities. Mr. Vigard is delegated the responsibility of supervising the science, mathematics, and business departments and spends a considerable portion of his time in visiting classes, as well as giving assistance to individual teachers. His administrative responsibilities include assisting in the general administration of Woodward. Pupils in the senior high know him best as the admissions officer who handles the enrollment of new pupils and the withdrawal of those who leave, as well as the one who handles attendance and discipline problems.

MR. ARTHUR VIGARD

Mr. Eugene Shrimpton, assistant principal for the Junior High School, is new to Woodward in this capacity. Last year he was the activities co-ordinator along with teaching social studies. As assistant principal for the Junior High his responsibilities are mainly concerned with administrative and supervisory functions. In the administrative field, Mr. Shrimpton takes charge of the problems of discipline and attendance, which brings him into close contact with the junior high pupils. Meetings with parents, community relations, teacher appraisal, and the student store are some of the other duties which consume his time. His supervisory capacities include the Social Studies, Industrial Arts, Home Economics and the Art Departments.

An important key opening the door to success for all students is held by the counseling staff. At Woodward we are fortunate to have Mr. John McConnell counseling the twelfth and half of the tenth grades, Miss Zerita Schwartz aiding the eleventh and the other half of the tenth grades, and Miss Georgie Blackwell coping with the seemingly overwhelming problems of the seventh, eighth, and ninth graders.

The counselors interpret to the entire student body the academic program of Woodward which is planned and administered by the principal and faculty. The gathering of extensive information on each student through a series of tests enables a program to be planned by counselor and student in the light of this information. The counselors are constantly evaluating and making all necessary changes.

ARTS AND CRAFTS DEPARTMENT

One has only to look at the attractive pieces of art work around the building to realize that prospective artists are at work. To give the student every opportunity to develop his own creative ability through knowledge of color, design, and proportion is the aim of our Art Department, thus enabling the student to appreciate artistic work throughout his life as well as to participate in its creation.

The education received in the Business Department may be applied in many different aspects of today's business world. Through the practice on modern, up-to-date equipment each student has the opportunity to become a skilled operator. Students taking only one course in a business subject, such as typing or merchandising, receive much valuable information and training. The Business Department enables theory and practical experience to work together in the class room.

To achieve success in our complex world, a complete knowledge of our own language is indispensable. Composition, grammar, and literature constitute the basic English course. The student through composition writing has the opportunity to develop his own ability and style along with a practical application of the learned grammar. Organizing his thoughts and ideas and arranging them into coherent statements is also of utmost importance. The student is introduced to all forms of literature: short story, novel, poetry. Whatever is read helps to broaden the pupil's appreciation of literature. Yes, English courses help to develop our personalities and make us more competent.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

The Foreign Language Department works to give each language student an accurate understanding with a working practical knowledge of each language. To comprehend the language of others leads to the understanding of the cultural, historical, and traditional background of these people. One's education is thus enhanced, permitting an unprejudiced, well-rounded person to evolve.

Under the competent supervision of our home economics teachers, the students strive to improve their culinary and dressmaking abilities. A pleasant background is provided by the clatter of pots and pans along with the rhythmic sound of the sewing machines. Even though mistakes are made, the results are rewarding as the practical information acquired will be long remembered and applied.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS DEPARTMENT

The ability to work successfully and acquire skill in using one's hands is often neglected in this day of mechanical and powerful machinery. Starting with an idea, then using raw materials of wood or metal to give shape to the idea, the student experiences the thrill of creation. To keep up the traditional treasure of hand-made materials, we rely on the teachers of industrial arts.

A wealth of knowledge can be found between the covers of the many books in the Woodward library. The library is always useful and inspirational to the students as well as to the faculty. Reading interests are awakened by clever displays and by personal attention from the librarians. Books are reviewed, purchased, and publicized each year to keep our library up-to-date to meet the demands of all students.

The ability to reason logically and work accurately, whether the student is striving to solve a simple sum or a complicated equation, is developed through math courses. Thus, having a background in math is helpful to the college-bound student as well as the student venturing into the business world. The Woodward Math Department is doing its part to instill in our students the idea that knowledge of figures and basic computations is a necessity in our civilization.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Music is a well-known feature of Woodward High School. Numerous opportunities are given to all who wish to develop musical and creative ability. It is for us to open the book and develop our musical abilities by instruction and cultivation. Both theory and practice receive equal attention in the Woodward course of instruction.

A lot of practice is needed for that "big show."

In the struggle for a well-rounded education man must have a strong body as well as a sound mind. Being physically fit adds much to one's good mental health. Because of the nature of gymnastic work, the members of the Physical Education Department come into close relationship with the students and are called upon in a counseling as well as a teaching capacity.

In our world the international situation has placed an emphasis on the importance of sciences in the schools. Woodward has recognized this importance but is also trying to maintain a high level of well-rounded students. The aim of the Science Department is to introduce new and basic ideas as well as preparing the students with the ability to enjoy a broader comprehension of our scientific world.

Through Social Studies courses we trace the rise and fall of civilizations so that our venture into the world will be taken with an understanding of the pattern of progress. Past eras and errors are the clues to the world of tomorrow. Knowing that our future is molded from patterns set by past civilizations, our Social Studies Department constantly tries to acquaint each student with the countless people, places, and eras that have gone before to make history.

OFFICE STAFF

The smoothly running wheels of Woodward would certainly slow down without the assistance of our office staff. The secretaries perform innumerable useful services to our school. Some of their tasks are filling out transcripts, checking options, balancing the budget, checking absences and tardy pupils, and giving out needed information to all who seek the office as a reference.

An earnest attitude which is expressed in their work convinces us that the business end of our school is in competent hands. The Woodward secretaries create an air of work well done.

MAINTENANCE

Living

Prior to claiming status as a Woodward student, community and family life have pretty firmly molded a student's living habits. New habits, however, are acquired as he lives and works with his fellow students of different ages, races, and religions. The converging and unpredictable demands of such group living stimulate and broaden his sphere. The senior who emerges after six years of life at Woodward is a far broader person than the entering seventh grader.

Some four hundred and fifty strong, the class of 1959 has at least two distinctions to their credit. They are the largest class yet to graduate from Woodward, and they are the first group to graduate that has spent a complete six years in the new building. Trailblazers in many other ways, too, the Class of '59 will leave many fine accomplishments for succeeding classes to emulate.

THE CLASS OF FIFTY-NINE

It was only six years ago, in the summer of nineteen fifty-three, that Woodward High School stood completed in majestic fashion. Yet, something was lacking. The void was suddenly filled the following September when hundreds of eager youngsters rushed through Woodward's waiting portals. A new school welcomed new students on the way to new horizons.

Much can be said about the first class to complete all six years at Woodward. The first and second years were spent primarily on capturing the age old secrets to good study habits, with little extra time available to the youthful "fifty-niners." It was then that our class took on the basic jobs befitting the beginner in all activities. The plight of the lowly freshman was accepted in earnest as a speedy year rushed past.

The following year the sophomores commenced their climb. They relinquished the less desirable tasks, and assumed the duties requiring increased responsibilities. Now the "Sophs" were able to attack and support the work required for successful edition of the school newspaper, the Bulldog Barks, and the Annual, the WOODWARD TREASURES. The same class was responsible for major roles in the school theatrics, as it participated in "Showcase," and Our Town, the play of the year.

Juniors now, after a short summer, the athletes of the class added strength and depth to the various teams and shared in the triumph of Woodward's first basketball trophy by remaining undefeated in the Lockland Invitational Tournament. Sports and all other functions were forgotten at the close of the year, when the class engaged in a most memorable Junior Prom.

The following September, in the year nineteen hundred fifty-eight, the students, who for the most part were the same who had entered Woodward for the first time in September of fifty-three, were again welcomed by William Woodward's outstretched hand. The first class to pass completely through all of Woodward's six grades had now reached its final step.

The social scene was not slighted in the least as the Woodward-Withrow "Football Folly" and the Homecoming Dance proved extremely enjoyable. Also, the senior dramatists added more lustre to their reputation with the presentation of Dino. Their accomplishments also resulted in the most entertaining "Showcase" in Woodward history. The Thespian excitement led directly into the Christmas vacation and a grand senior Xmas party.

Woodward, a powerful contender in various fields of sport, lacked the success of a highly spirited football team, but achieved a winning basketball year. The cross country team gained the city championships, and placed a healthy fifth in state competition. A tremendous baseball and swimming season ensued with the mer-men capturing third place in the state meet.

A bitter cold January stormed directly into mid-year examinations, the last to be taken by the fading seniors. Finally, a reprieve was given in the form of an Easter vacation. April and May offered little more than various social affairs, theme papers, and college applications blanks.

On Class Day in June, many students were recipients of merited awards. Shortly after, on June thirteenth, the Senior Prom proved to be the greatest high school function ever witnessed by the twelfth graders. At eight o'clock the class gathered for a dinner dance. After twelve, each Cinderella was entertained by her prince with a romantic cruise on the famous steamship Avalon. Returning, a weary group left the downtown docks in time to gaze at the sunrise illuminating the new world which they faced. Many delightful breakfasts and early morning picnics crowded all the nearby parks. Not until the afternoon of the fourteenth did the tired seniors head home for a much needed rest.

Now the senior class of nineteen fifty-nine must leave the sanctuary of Woodward High. On June eighteenth, from under the sheltering arm of William Woodward, the fifty-niners, half reluctant to go, were leaving. The graduating seniors marched out through Woodward's portals, not only with a feeling of regret, but also with the true pride and spirit of pioneers. "Time goes, you say? Ah, No! Alas, time stays, we go."

Just a year away from being seniors, Woodward's juniors are a carefree lot. True, college or a job or that tour of duty in the Armed Forces isn't far around the corner, but a year is a long time to a 17 year old. Many dances, football games, dates, and yes, exams, are between them and that fateful day in June when they will stop being just "high school students" and assume the responsibilities of the adult world. Some 512 strong, Woodward is pinning its hopes on the class of 1960.

SOPHOMORES

The Class of 1961 has promises of being the best graduating class Woodward has ever put out, if size is any determiner of quality. Some 650 strong now and standing the good chance of being closer to 750 when they reach the senior year, the present tenth grade will be the largest graduating class in the school's one hundred and thirty year history. Size brings its problems. The Music Hall, traditional site of Woodward's commencement exercises, will not be able to handle a group of this size. The school auditorium will not hold many of their parents for May Day activities. Undaunted, however, the sophomore class moves ahead, being capably led by its class officers.

A Woodward student has vast opportunity to delve beyond living and learning. An available, well-balanced program of activities is designed to comply with the needs, demands, and widely diversified interests of all students. Participation in the activities and traditions of high school life deepen his experience, giving a new dimension to a personality shaped and tempered by Woodward High School.

Some idea of the importance of activities at Woodward can be gotten from the fact that the Board of Education has seen fit to assign two teachers as co-ordinators of them. A real effort is made to encourage all students to participate in some activity, and all of them are tied in with the educational program at Woodward.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Through responsibility, leadership, and hard work, one can gain depth of character and a well-rounded personality. The Woodward School Council is the medium through which many students get the building blocks for character and personality.

The representatives elected by each homeroom have many responsibilities placed on their shoulders. They must accurately report the activities to the homeroom, and also take the ideas and complaints of the homeroom back to the representative assembly. They must vote according to the wishes of their homerooms no matter what the personal feelings.

But the members of the Council have leadership obligations as well as representative responsibility connected with their job. They must take a stand against the injustices of whatever they see. They must always be on the side of what is best and try to show their homeroom the right things to do.

Hard work is a vital part of the job of every council member. He has to support projects that may vary from selling doughnuts and milk between exams to decorating the lunchroom for a Council-sponsored dance. No council member is left idle; each is required to be on a committee.

Our school life is changed by these representatives. When the student body wants something done, it is through Council that this work is accomplished. This year, the P. A. announcements were changed from afternoon to morning at the request of the students.

The Executive Council consists of the Council officers and the chairmen of School Council's nine standing committees. The members of the Executive Council have shown marked abilities in leadership, high character and responsibility. They have gained these traits through broad and varied activities.

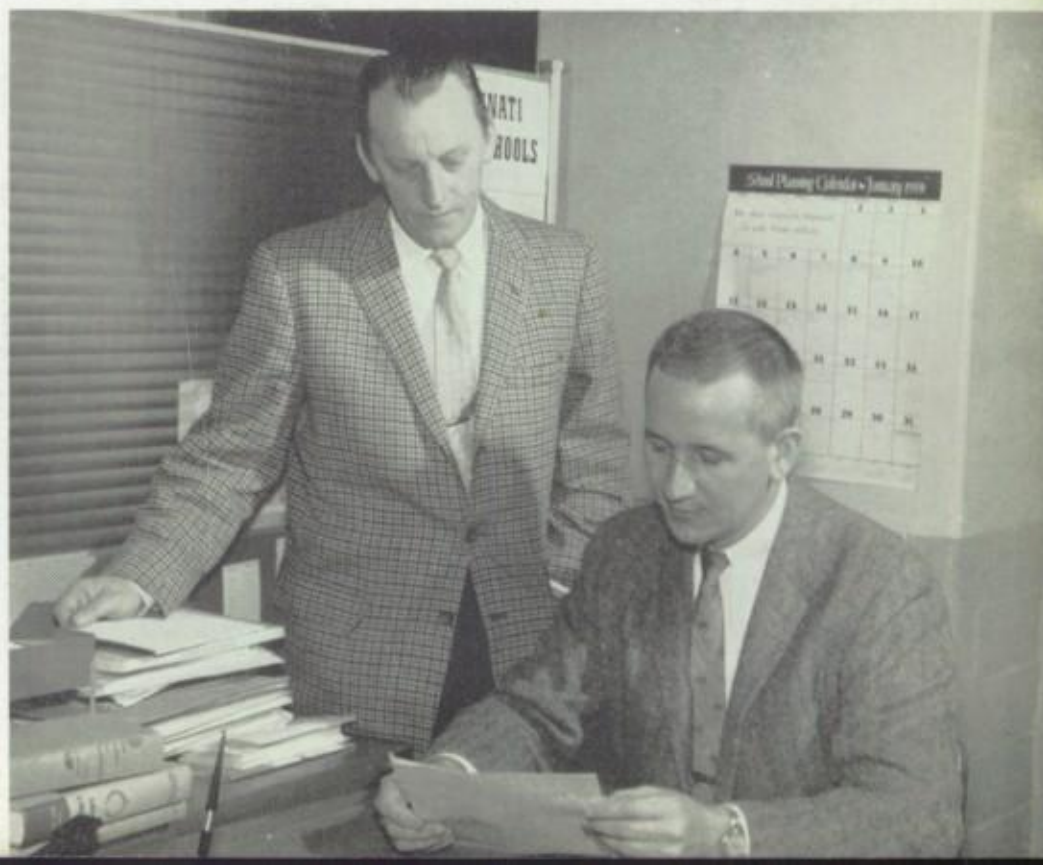

The purpose of the Executive Council is to initiate and recommend legislation to the Representative Assembly. Council meetings are usually lively and informal discussions. The agenda for the following meeting of the entire School Council is discussed and planned. The projects of all committees must first be approved by the Executive Council before being presented to the Representative Assembly.

The Executive Council acts as a clearing house for suggestions and questions concerning council business. Ideas are born, discussed and put in motion in Executive Council. It is a policy-making group but can also act in an advisory capacity.

The sponsors and advisors of School Council are Mr. William Spreen, Mr. Joseph Horton. Other Faculty leaders are Mr. Moeller, Mr. Vigard, Mr. Shrimpton, Mr. Marshall, Mr. Russell, Mr. Diersing, Mr. McConn, Mr. Coyle, Miss Fine and Mrs. Heitkamp.

Throughout the school year, the annual staff has captured the three dimensions of depth, breadth, and height at Woodward High School. These are portrayed in pictures and copy. This may seem like an easy task, but it takes time and concentrated work.

CAROL CASPER
Editor-in-Chief

There are two staffs, business and literary. The business staff conducts the financial tasks of the annual. The subscription campaign and securing ads from the merchants for the advertisement section of the annual are their main jobs. The literary staff has the task of getting the annual assembled. Pictures have to be scheduled and taken of every student, teacher, and faculty member. The various activities also have to be photographed. Sometimes these pictures have to be rescheduled and retaken. These pictures have to be identified and copy has to be written for the annual. Each job has a certain deadline, which the staff always finds hard to meet. These horrible deadlines cause many trips to get pizza or the Frisches when working late after school. Mr. William Strunk, advisor for both staffs, is always ready to advise his staffs and sees that the book takes form. He sets deadlines and sees that they are met.

The primary aim of the WOODWARD TREASURES is to put into a pictorial story a host of memories from this school year that we all hold so dear.

The staff has gained depth in their own personal development from their experiences of working on the yearbook. A final joy comes to each staff member as the completed copy is distributed to the student body in late May.

When a copy of the Bulldog Barks arrives in a homeroom, few students realize the amount of responsibility the staff must undertake to put out an edition. It is through this responsibility that the staff members have a chance to broaden their personalities.

Every position on the paper carries with it a great deal of responsibility. Under Literary Advisor, Mr. David Thurin, the editorial staff must edit the news, make assignments and even do unjournalistic jobs such as decorating for the dance they sponsor, The Royal Shuffle.

Co-editors-in-chief Bonnie Woellner and Dave Dressler are the heads of the literary end of the publication. They must edit the paper as a whole and, in general, tie up all the loose ends. In addition, Dave is the News Editor and Bonnie is Editorial Editor. Together with Co-feature Editors, Ann Niedermeyer and Betsy Morris, and Sports Editor, Roger Collier, the Managing Editor doesn't edit a page, but his job is to help out the Page Editors when there is a problem.

The paper also started a new practice this year of conferring even more responsibility on deserving students by making them Associate Editors. Freshmen, too, have an opportunity to gain experience early through a new column, The Junior Hi Times.

The Business Staff, under Mr. John Sunnenberg, has a big share of the responsibility. Publicity Coordinator Joanne Alman, and Business Manager, Joe Farkas, handle the monetary end of the paper. They must take charge of ads, printing costs, money collected and paid out, plus supervise distribution of the paper.

When these two staffs channel their efforts in one direction, the result is the Bulldog Barks, a newspaper that is informative to the student body, a pleasure for anyone to read, and a broadening experience for its staff members.

SHOWCASE '59

The robin may be the harbinger of spring for the poet, but for the Woodward student it's the annual production of "Showcase." If spring took as much planning and fixing for its arrival as does a "Showcase" production, then old Mother Nature must be one tired soul. Actually, it's hard to tell where and when planning for the event takes place, as the process seems continuous. Even while one production is on the boards, next year's is taking shape. The names of other faculty members helping out would be too numerous to list, but members of the Home Economics, Industrial Arts, and Arts and Crafts Departments carried a lion's share of the work. To list all of the students joining in the fun would be even more difficult, as well over two hundred participated this year, some

Not to be overlooked in any list of performers is the 55-piece Showcase Band, who provided the excellent musical background. Always timely in its theme, the "Showcase '59" provided an excellent spoofing of the American Space Age, with its mad, delightfully-furious efforts to be "out there firstest with the mostest"—the cost to the taxpayer be hanged. Woodward students can be proud of such a fine organization as the Senior Band under the capable baton of Mr. Gordon Ritter. A rigid schedule is maintained by the band in its participation in many school activities. Band season, one of the longest of any organization, extends from the Pigskin Preview to graduation.

Practice for the football season begins about two weeks before school opens. Band formations and songs are repeated and repeated. Band members like to remember cheering at the exciting football games, getting the "jitters" before a show, and the proud feeling after a successful performance.

Also, many hours of practice are needed for the Showcase. The thrilling sounds which accompany each number are supplied by selected members of the band. Extracurricular activities for the band include small units such as brass, woodwind and drum ensembles, and the Woodward Dance Band.

Presiding as president of the Senior Band is Dave Lieberman; vice-president, Mike Schlensker; secretary, Kathy Hayslip; and treasurer, Jerry Woodruff. These leaders aid Mr. Ritter with the many assemblies, concerts and parades to which the band lends their blended tones. We take off our hats to the Woodward Senior Band for a splendid job well done.

Among the largest organizations at Woodward is the Senior Choir, which is under the direction of Mr. Robert McSpadden. This singing group mixes fun with hard work in their preparation for numerous events. Their beautiful voices blend together in the holiday assemblies—Thanksgiving and Christmas.

They also sing for Senior graduation at Music Hall. Many times they sing with other groups in the May Festival and the All-City Choir. These performances are many, varied and are always fun and interesting to those who attend and sing.

The Senior Choir meets during third bell and many times before school. The members learn the basic fundamentals of music and how to appreciate good music. These two factors develop the individual member into a more adaptable and well-rounded person.

This year presiding over Senior Choir is Joan Brickwood, with Bruce Humphries assisting her. Randy Rosenbaum and Sue Bollinger share the duties of secretary, while Jerry Saxton and Mike Altherr keep check on the finances.

To be a member of Ensemble is the dream of every Senior Choir member. Ensemble is a selected group of high quality voices numbering thirty-three. The members are all juniors and seniors and are selected for their singing ability, musical knowledge, and appreciation of the art. They sing for the various school affairs and are quite busy with other performances around the city. Along with these engagements, the Ensemble sings with Senior Choir at their performances. This year's officers are: John Hartung, President; June Metzger, Vice-President; Carol Casper, Secretary; and Steve Clause, Treasurer.

The Girls' Chorus consists of two groups—the fifth bell girl's glee club and the sixth bell mixed chorus. The girls in this group are members of grades nine through twelve who find enjoyment in singing. Under the very capable leadership of Mr. Robert McSpadden, the Girls' Chorus, participates in the Christmas Concert and a few assemblies throughout the school year. While having fun, these girls are developing their personalities artistically and culturally bringing depth into their lives.

ART LEAGUE

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," a poet said long ago. A present day extension of this idea is the thought that caused the Woodward Art League to be formed.

It is through this organization that Woodward is beautified. The additions of shrubbery, the beautifying of William Woodward's statue, the hall decorations at Christmas time, and the additions of pictures for Woodward's halls are all a part of the work of this club.

When a student pays his Art League dues, he knows he is not joining a club in which there are meetings or a club in which he will be an active member. But it is those dues that make Woodward one of the most beautiful high schools in Cincinnati.

The students realize this, and with every new picture hung on the walls, every stone added to the patio around William Woodward's statue, and every paper Santa Claus gracing the halls in the holiday season, the members have a feeling of satisfaction.

It is through this satisfaction that the Art League broadens the personalities of its members. When a member realizes that he is doing his part in making his school a place that will be beautiful through the years and he appreciates the changes in the school, he gains a love of beauty and a desire to make things better that will be a part of him all his life.

The Senior Art Club, under the direction of Mr. David Redfern, delves into the depths of the artistic world. The club has dual objectives. One of these is to promote and encourage interest in the appreciation and understanding of the visual arts. The second is to assist in certain school projects pertaining to painting and design.

This year's activities have been mainly engaged in service to the school for extra-curricular events. The members have worked long and hard on poster and program designs and stage sets for the annual showcase production. Holiday decorations are also planned and made for the school. For purely enjoyment, the club annually makes a field trip or has a sketching party. While either working for the school or having fun with each other, the members of the Senior Art Club develop artistic traits in their personalities.

SENIOR HONOR SOCIETY

Of all the many extra-curricular activities at Woodward, the one most sought after for membership and the one most closely allied with the true purposes of education is the Woodward National Honor Society. Just desiring to enter this most elite of organizations is not enough. To be eligible to join a student must maintain a 3.1 average if he is a senior and a 3.5 average if he is a junior. Then, too, each prospective member must be recommended highly by the faculty of the school.

Under the leadership of Miss Maita Levine, the Woodward chapter has been expanding its activities each year. The encouragement of high standards of scholarship is the principle goal of all its activities. Visiting junior high homerooms to acquaint these neophytes with good study habits is just one of the varied functions. Aiding teachers with grading chores around exam time is another. In the organization itself scholarship is strengthened by making use of local outstanding figures in the field of education as guest speakers at meetings. This year, for example, Dean Joseph Holliday of the University of Cincinnati spoke at one of the regular meetings.

Yes, it's a proud moment in the life of a Woodwardite when he ascends the steps in the auditorium to receive his membership pin from the principal.

It's never too early—to promote school spirit. With this in mind the Junior High Pep Club goes into action. This club is to teach junior high pupils so that when they are in senior high at Woodward they will be good school citizens.

This club's purpose is to inspire all junior high pupils with this important quality. They want all the members to go to the games, really cheer, and most important, support Woodward in all school functions, whether athletic or not.

The Junior High Pep Club may be early starters in promoting school spirit, but if a seventh grader gains this quality, he will be sure to have it when he is a senior.

The members do not go to meetings as they would in other clubs. But when they pay their dues and get their membership cards, they are a part of a club as much as they would be in any other club. Every time they go to an athletic event at a reduced rate, they are benefiting from their membership. At the same time they are supporting the purpose of the organization, since they are supporting the games and gaining school spirit.

Nothing can broaden the personality more than school spirit. As a person learns to support his school and be true to it, he improves his life at the moment and builds character as he goes on in life.

Win team win! are familiar words heard at pep assemblies, football and basketball games, and practices or wherever the cheerleaders are present. To further school spirit and good sportsmanship is the prime objective of the varsity, reserve, and junior high cheerleading squads. Practices are held every Monday throughout football and basketball seasons. This year the squads have tried to improve the words, motions, and execution of the old cheers along with originating new ones.

"All the world's a stage" is exemplified by the Junior Drama Club in its third year of existence. One of the most important purposes of the club is to stimulate and create interest in drama. The members have participated in many projects this year. During Showcase, the members participated on stage, off stage, served on committees, as well as in continuity, pony chorus, and specialty acts. At the bi-weekly meetings throughout the year, monologues, skits, readings, pantomimes, and special acts are given. These opportunities for experience makes its members more developed in the dramatic field.

There are two special meetings for the Junior Drama Club. In December, the new officers are formally installed and the members initiated for the year 1958-59. At the end of the year, the ninth graders reminisce about the year's activities and present The Last Will and Testament. The seventh and eighth graders countered with a prophecy about the ninth graders in the years to come.

JUNIOR DRAMA CLUB ACTIVITIES

Besides the activities listed on the previous page, the Woodward Junior Drama Club is responsible for staging the three or four Sales Tax Stamp Assemblies held to encourage students to save stamps. Always entertaining, these shows are of the variety type and offer the club members a real opportunity to display their talents. A lot of informal fun with plenty of training in the formal principles of drama—that's the Junior Drama Club.

SENIOR DRAMA CLUB

One of the most active groups at school is the Dramatic Club. Under the active leadership of Mr. Ronald Aug, the 1958-1959 edition of this group brought both pleasure and honor to the Woodward student body. Starting in the spring of '58, the club sponsored the Hamilton County Thespian One Act Play Contest in which five schools participated. Woodward won with their sparkling presentation of "The Informer." They also placed three students on the all-contest cast, including the top spot, best actor.

In the fall of '58, the school acted as sponsor for Southwestern Ohio Thespian Conference at which Mr. Humphry Davis of the touring cast of "Romanoff and Juliet" spoke. This was followed by the presentation of "Balcony Scene," another one act play.

The highlight of the season came with the presentation of "Dino" on December 3 and 5. Attendance records for Woodward dramatic activities were smashed at the superb performances. As the yearbook goes to press, the club is in the the boards.

SENIOR DRAMA ACTIVITIES

To be presented on May 1 and 2 is "Stage Door," a three-act comedy. As soon as the sets are torn down from this presentation, rehearsal begins for the One Act Play Contest, in which six local schools will compete. When the final curtain rings down on May 22, the members of Woodward's Senior Drama Club will have had another successful year.

BUSINESS CLUB

The pounding of typewriter keys against paper is a sound that is growing to be more and more important in the world as it is today.

So that Woodward girls interested in the ever growing field can better understand the intricacies of business, this club was formed.

In its second year of membership in the Future Business Leaders of America, the club had a most successful year under the advisor, Miss Rosella Honekamp. The members visit various industries, factories, and companies to see big business in action. Guest speakers visit the club to tell about other aspects of business.

The purpose of this club is to develop knowledge of the business world, to help each member grow in personality and leadership, and to render service to the school and to the community.

The wonderful world of the Frenchman is revealed in the activities of the French Club. This club is designed to bring forth a knowledge of French customs and ways to its members. Students from all four years of French are invited to join the French Club and to attend its monthly meetings under the guidance of Mrs. Parker and Mr. D'Amico.

"Un petit déjeuner" and the Christmas festivities are the highlights of the group's fast-moving calendar of activities, climaxed with a picnic in June. The club meetings are highlighted by guest speakers, French plays, movies, games and music.

The meetings are presided over by the president, Steve Meitus. The vice-president, Cindy Shor, and second vice-president, Norma Scott, are chairmen of the committees concerned with the club. Sandy Sloan, secretary, can be seen each meeting busily taking notes. French Club's vault is guarded by the treasurer, Sharon Carp.

Last year, for the first time, a class in the principles and techniques of retail merchandising was taught at Woodward. Being highly successful, it was continued and expanded this year, and a Merchandising Club was added to supplement the class program. Made up entirely of pupils in Mrs. Bower's first bell class, this club meets on class time. Often, the group tours local business firms or has local merchants address the membership. Working in practice with theory is regular fare for this new and popular Woodward activity.

Music has powers to soothe the savage beast, it is said, but the Woodward Jazz Club was not formed to soothe its members. It was formed so that those interested in jazz would be able to hear the type of music they enjoy and discuss it with others.

This club is newly formed to comply with the growing number of students who have a consuming interest in jazz. The members not only hear and talk about the music they love, some also play this music. Also important is that the members gain an understanding of the likes of others and gain a greater knowledge of the music itself.

A brand new organization sponsored by two new-to-Woodward teachers, Mr. Joe Horton and Mr. George Brooks, is the Photography Club. Not a professional club, although many of its members have first-rate equipment and considerable technique, all who have an interest in picture taking and developing are invited. Various members serve on the school publication staffs. Many pictures appearing in the "Bulldog Barks" and in the Woodward Treasures were made, developed, and printed by this club.

One of the real service organizations at Woodward is the Tax Stamp Council. Composed of selected members from the elected homeroom representatives, this group has the somewhat thankless and glamourless task of encouraging the student body to save and bring to school those elusive little sales tax stamps. Much record keeping is also necessary along with a great deal of tedious work in counting and bundling the stamps preparatory to mailing to Columbus for redemption. It's all worth it, however, as the school realizes some three thousand dollars from the redemption of student collected stamps each year.

When this call is heard there are many boys at Woodward who perk up their ears, since these are the call letters of the Radio Club's ham radio station.
Radio Club is a club in which all interested students have the opportunity to learn more about the field and to have the fun of using a ham radio.
These boys can fully realize that our world is growing smaller through advances in communication and travel. And as it grows smaller the members of the Radio Club broaden their personalities by speaking to and making friends with people from all over the world.

The Big Sisters organization has functioned for only one year. Big Sisters was founded on the principle of aiding with the overwhelming problems of the seventh grade girls. To a seventh grade student, Woodward is a huge, strange building. It is the duty of each Big Sister to introduce and make her little sister feel welcome as well as check on her grades.

The Big Sisters organization has given two parties, the first one being a get-acquainted party in October, and the second party in December a Christmas party.

Under the direction of Mrs. Anna Borchin, the library assistants shelf, arrange displays, paste, file, write overdue notices, and run errands for the library. A sterling silver pin and a Woodward Award Certificate are given to each library assistant who serves at least fifty hours.

In this age of major scientific developments, it is important to broaden the personality by gaining an interest in the field of science. In Woodward's Physical Science Club interested pupils have a chance to get experience and guidance not possible in a science class.

The Physical Science Club offers students an organization in which they can meet, discuss ideas, and develop individual talents.

Although only in its second year of existence, the club has offered many students the chance to pursue their individual interests.

Never seen, yet always present keeping the show moving smoothly—this is the Stage Crew. Composed of a group of skilled and interested boys working under the sponsorship of Mr. Ronald Aug, the Crew sets up the main auditorium for each and every activity taking place there. This ranges from complex problems of lighting and precise timing for the Showcase and Dramatic Club presentations to the relatively easy problem of providing outlets for the photographers from Piques when they come to shoot the pictures of the underclassmen. Great or small, the job is always well-done.

Preparing to take responsibilities early is an important part of broadening the personality, and Future Teachers of America is a club that offers its members this opportunity.

The club members learn early about the teaching profession, and even get a chance to work with children in situations where they may learn to realize the potential satisfaction of teaching. The members start early to develop professional attitudes.

The members, through this club, will be able to go into the profession with a head start.

Though the musical program at Woodward is extensive, there has been up to this year very little opportunity for pupils interested in string instruments to meet and practice together under organized leadership. After all, what good is a violin or cello on the gridiron? To fill this gap in the cultural program at school, Mr. Ritter, band director, formed the String Ensemble. Meeting during the second bell every day, this group offers ample opportunity for interested and talented students to deepen their musical backgrounds by coming into contact with the rich world of strings.

Working under the name of Future Nurses of America last year, this organization, under the leadership of Mrs. Darlene Kroencke, felt the need for a broader and deeper coverage of the many careers centered about health. So, at the beginning of the present year it was decided to work under the title of Health Careers Club. Besides nursing, such related fields as dietetics, public health, laboratory technology, X-Ray technology, and sanitation are discussed and looked into. Students having interest in possible careers in such areas meet regularly, make field trips, and have local professional personnel address their meetings.

Like its sister organization, the Senior National Honor Society, the Junior National Honor Society encourages and recognizes excellence in scholarship. Formation of the local chapter marked another first for Woodward, as prior to five years ago when the Woodward chapter was formed, no local junior high school recognized scholarship through this organization. Meeting regularly, this club enjoys good fellowship while thinking up ways and means to encourage scholarship among junior high pupils.

The desire to argue is a natural part of all of us. There is a club at Woodward which offers its members the chance to argue many important points which will be of benefit in later years. This is the Debate Club.

This chance to debate teaches the members of the club how to prepare a clear, concise argument. And, since one cannot always debate on the side he wishes, the members learn to look at a topic from all sides and with no prejudices.

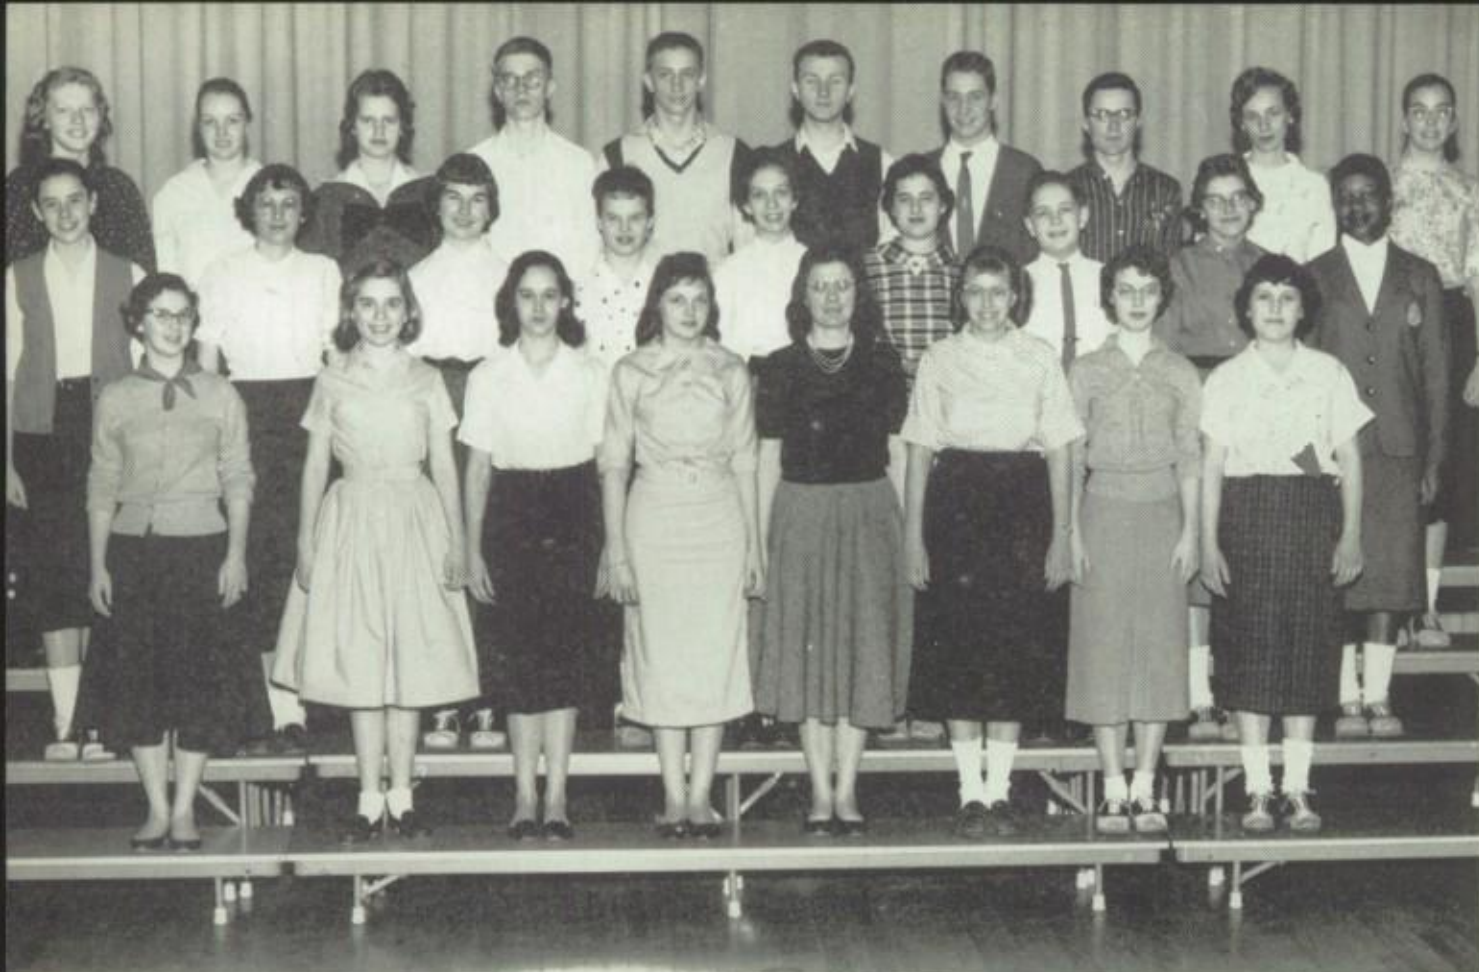

Combine all these aspects and you have a club which is most beneficial—the Debate Club.

Although there is a very adequate science program at Woodward, the size of the classes make it difficult for the individual student to work on any pet project or to discuss at length and leisure some specially interesting area. Created to allow the interested student these opportunities is the Junior High Science Club. Meeting under a regular member of the science department, the members of this club enjoy the experiences of good fellowship as well as deepening their knowledge of the physical sciences.

Junior high students are given a chance to display their creative depth and talent in the Junior High Art Club, under the direction of Mr. Henry Glover. This club enables the members interested in art to develop a better understanding and appreciation in this field. Among their activities are decorating for junior high dances, holiday decorations for the school and individual art projects. The members through these projects achieve artistic development while having lots of fun.

The projection crew has as its responsibility assisting teachers in their teaching program by the use of audio-visual aids as well as distributing and operating the equipment.

The projection crew is composed of approximately 30 boys who are scheduled throughout the day to distribute the materials, to work with the faculty advisor, Mr. Anderson, and to keep the equipment in good working order. Many a teacher's day is made easier through the work of this efficient organization.

El Círculo Español es un club muy bueno que ofrece a los socios una oportunidad para enriquecerse.

For those who "no hablan espanol" this means that the Spanish Club helps its members enrich their personalities. It does this by helping them learn more about Spanish-speaking people, their ideas, and their customs.

Through a wide and interesting program of Spanish-speaking guests, Spanish dinners, and fiestas, the Círculo Español succeeded in its purpose.

To give the seventh, eighth, and ninth grade girls at Woodward the benefits of the Y-Teen organization, a separate club, the Junior Y-Teens, was formed.

Like the senior branch of this organization sponsored by the Young Woman's Christian Association, this club gives the younger girls the chance to grow as a person, to grow in friendship with people of other races, and to grow in knowledge and love of God.

The Junior Y-Teens is a club in which young girls can meet with others who have the same ideals, talk these over, and work on developing the qualities which will be invaluable later on in life.

A T H L E T I C S

Each school year, the sports scene produces many outstanding athletes from over 500 hard workers in its varied program. Another year has brought more individual honors and conferred much glory on Woodward. Orrin Nordstrom has been a bright athletic star smashing numerous state and national records in his exceptional work on the swim team.

"Good catch, Guy, but don't look now—"

Hampered by the loss of eighteen varsity players by graduation from last year's squad, Coaches Dougherty and Campbell began the laborious and often discouraging job of rebuilding Woodward's football fortunes. To make the difficult job even more difficult was the fact that both coaches were new to the campus. The won-lost record does not tell the true results of this year's efforts. Nine losses and one win. Many of the games were toss-ups until late in the second half, and given a break here and there, the outcome would have been different. Lack of player experience and depth of replacements also made the difference in many of the closer games. Whereas our opponents had the seasoning a couple of year's play gives and the reserves to spell the first stringers when they tired, Woodward's Bulldogs had to be content with meeting a lot of situations for the first time and playing their boys a full game.

One fact looms high as we look at the '58-'59 season in retrospect; no one connected with the team, the coaches, the players, and the students in the stands, gave up fighting till the last gun sounded. Plans are already underway to take step number two towards a winning Bulldog squad.

Reserve football serves a dual function as an athletic activity at Woodward. It acts as a middle step between junior high and varsity in developing the skill of the competitor. Second, it gives those boys with average ability a chance to participate in good, clean, wholesome sport.

The 1959 reserve squad, under the direction of Mr. Nicholas Weiler, exploited spirit, aggressiveness, and tackling ability to split even in games. Their record of three wins and three losses proved best of the three Woodward football squads.

Individual talents were also displayed in this sport that demands teamwork as a primary element of success. Twenty six reserve letters were awarded to the following for their performances during the season: J. Labovitch, L. Nipper, L. White, L. Murphy, B. Mallory, L. Elliott, E. Southard, A. Johnson, L. Cunningham, L. Herbert, R. Retzler, R. Durham, H. Dyer, A. Mosher, J. Irwin, B. Stewart, B. Hill, D. Mahan, B. Mitchell, S. Schwartz, G. Kuhnell, D. Reynolds, G. Owens, F. Sturtemeyer, and J. Bielski. Of these boys, Eddie Southard was labeled most accurate passer and Larry Cunningham second in punting of the city-wide reserve circuit.

Although the best of the reserve squad annually moves up to varsity competition, Coach Weiler still expects an excellent '60 season.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL

Junior High Football, as Coach Stanley Castelli will confirm, is a wholesome outlet for boys who desire and appreciate vigorous contact sports. It strives to redirect the energies of the junior high student from idleness to activity which is character-forming, introduces him to formal competitive ball, and teach him how to co-operate for the betterment of the team.

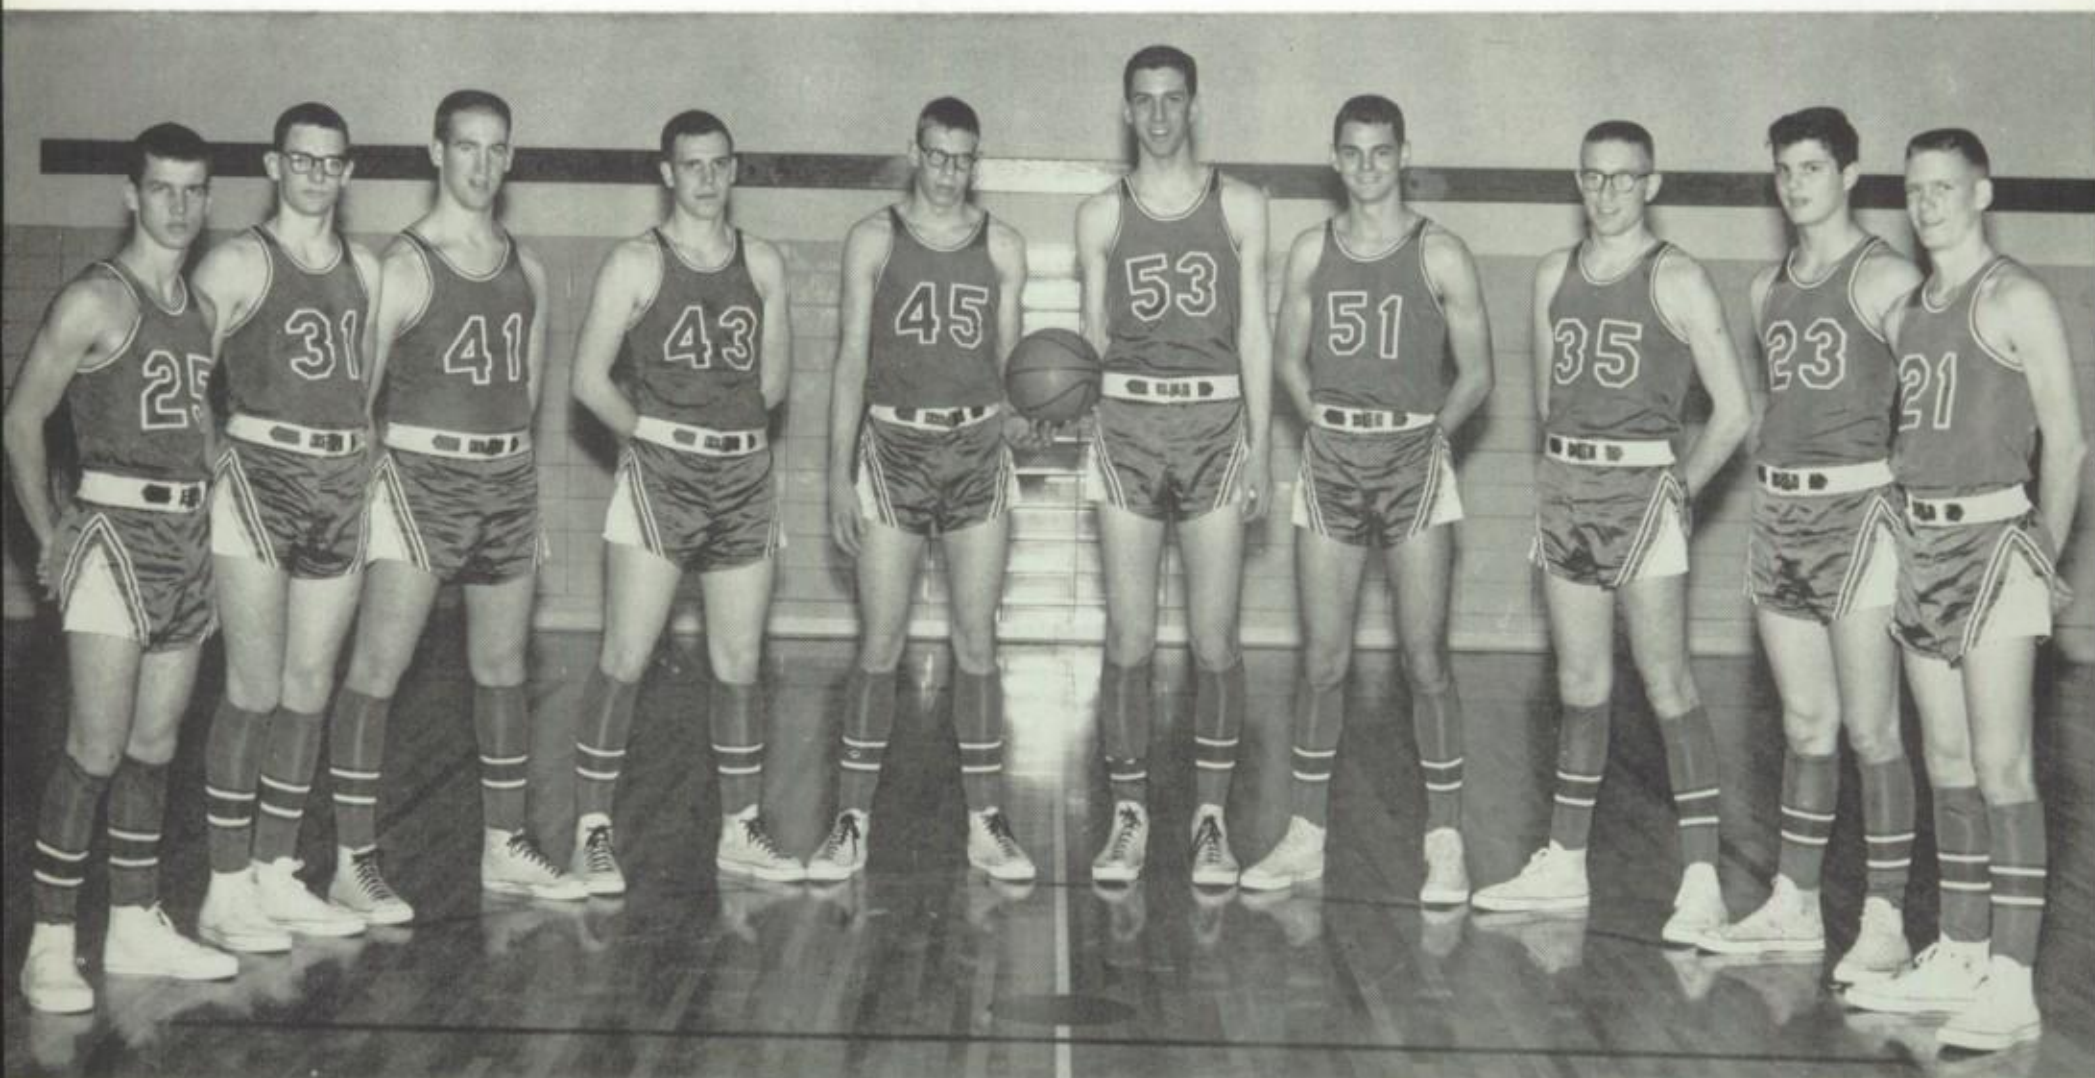

In junior high football, as in most junior high sports, emphasis is placed first upon overall development of the competitor and then upon the specific skills developed for the sport itself. This year's team represents the fruits of such an emphasis. Although the Bullpups failed to win, they always displayed the will to try again. Such a willingness kept through a losing season represents a development of character which far surpasses in value the score of any one contest.

VARSVITY BASKETBALL

Although the variance in physical stature of Coach Sid Friedman's 1959 Bulldog basketball team is surprisingly great, the height of sportsmanship, team effort and exciting basketball remains unmistakably at top level.

From our lanky 6'7" center John Holtzman to compact guard Jim Schwab, the Bulldogs span the gamut of height—and specialized abilities. For that consistent and significant swish, forward Bob Neuman must be singled out. This 6'2" junior owns a proud 23-point scoring average and also manages to haul down about 17 rebounds per game. The only returning letterman from last year's team is forward Dick Roots who, with co-captain guard Dave DeBord, plays a key part in team organization and leadership. Roots is the second highest point-maker and has displayed uncanny marksmanship at the free throw line, with a recently established school record of 24 straight. Alternating at the center post is Joe Buchanan. Don Elmore shares guard duty and Bob Stumpf and speedster Jerry Saxton (top cross country runner) see action at forward. Add Steve Claus and Al Weisbrodt and you've got some mighty helpful and important backbone to the strong Woodward quintet. The development of this tremendous bench strength "has kept us in the thick of the league race," as Coach Friedman points out.

"The development of a boy's personality down proper lines of good citizenship, responsibility, keenness of mind, and improvement of body," is the Coach's interpretation of the importance of school sports, especially in the intricate togetherness essential to good basketball. Earnestly doing their utmost to preserve the Woodward spirit, the Blue and White cagers spend from "10 to 15 hours a week," in the perfection of their teamwork. The effort has most certainly paid off in high and close, if not always winning, scores which at one time had shoved the bulldogs in the leading P. H. S. L. spot and which finally kept our team in third place with a 10-8 won-lost total. The outlook for 1960 is extremely promising since Coach Friedman feels we are better fixed for experienced basketball playing."

Such a brand of basketball ability as the Bulldogs have shown earns its own reward for the team, but the unceasing rallying cries of "a hard core of loyal team followers" has given our boys that extra needed incentive to play proudly because they play for Woodward.

RESERVE BASKETBALL

Weakened by a shortage of boys on which to base a truly winning team, the Woodward Reserve basketball squad, under Coach Ollie Freese's able leadership, worked to the best of their ability. In spite of the handicap of being the slowest and smallest team in the league, Coach Freese's cagers managed to produce two victories—over McNicholas and Western Hills—in a season of disheartening but hardly responsible defeats.

Although Woodward's stockpile for the Varsity constantly felt the need for a fuller, more powerful supply of bench strength, all members must be given credit for a hard try all the way. No individual can be singled out for overall leadership abilities since captainship of the team is never fixed upon one person. Jim Pearce, Joe Williams, Barry Fieldman and Leland White provided a strong nucleus for the squad. All the team, including Alan Spencer, Bob Mitchell, Larry Elliot, Larry Cunningham, Bill Neff and Marv Nudell, did the job that can only be expected when the turn out of potential players is small.

Coach Freese agreed that "the boys did many things well on the court, but couldn't put the ball through the basket." The coach has expressed strong hopes that next season's team will be one chosen from a larger group of possible players and that adequate support will give the team new life.

The Junior High basketball team, coached by Nicholas Weiler, ended its season with a 2-12 won-lost record that hardly reflected team ability and effort. In practice and in the first game against tough Finneytown, the boys exhibited real promise and as Coach Weiler affirmed, the team "was only actually out-classed by Withrow and Cutter." With above average playing and hustling, attempts were made to make up for the squad's inexperience, but the need for taller ball handlers could not be met.

Similar to the Reserves, the Junior High team has no cap tain but rather changes leaders with games. However, Bockwell, Wolf and Piott have proved to be very valuable members.

Since the squad has been short on strength in members seventh and eighth grade players had to be used in spots where older boys might have tipped the scale. Coach Weiler is already looking forward to next year when his eighth graders, two of whom are starters, will have grown one year in both height and experience.

CROSS COUNTRY

Cross country acclaimed by many as being the most difficult high school athletic activity, helps to develop the bodies the will, and the tenacity of the individual. This year's squad under the able guidance of Coach Sid Friedman, literally wrote Woodward athletic history. With the outstanding running of the senior trio of Jerry Saxton, Barry Binkley, and Jack Hebeler, supplemented by the fine performances of lettermen Earl Weiskettle, Jerry Burton, and Ulf Sawert, the varsity cross country squad became the first Woodward team to capture an undisputed city Championship, a Southwestern Ohio District Championship, and a fifth in an all Ohio State High School competition.

Special recognition should go not only to the team as a whole, but to the individuals who comprised the team. Jerry Saxton took highest honors by placing first, second, and tenth in the city, district, and state competition respectively. Close behind was Barry Binkley, not below fourth place in all competition. Jack Hebeler finished the honor group with fifth places in city and district competition and twenty-third in the state.

With the graduation of the seniors, Coach Friedman will be faced with a big rebuilding job. He believes that ample opportunities for building the body and supporting the school exist in cross country. Ability, conditioning, and most of all, desire, Mr. Friedman, affirms, combine to produce a successful competitor.

The 1958-1959 edition of the Woodward Gymnastic Team enjoyed a most successful and profitable season of competition in the Public High School Athletic League. To build on past fine performances and to strive for continued improvement in gymnastic exercises remains their goal.

Again Woodward's teams finished their schedule in second place behind Central High School's fine champions. Western Hills and Hughes trailed in the varsity events, and switched places for standings of reserve teams. First place winners in varsity competition who also earned the Woodward Letter Award for Gymnastics were: Robert Shilling—still rings; Nathan Shmalo and Earl Weiskettle—parallel bars; and Robert Yonka—rope climb. Providing depth, the following varsity team members also earned the letter award: Michael Burns, Bruce Fister, William Henefelt, William Norfolk, John Pratte, Charles Schmitt, and Charles Sonenshein. Reserve team first place winners receiving the letter award were: Richard Calvin—long horse; Thomas Otto—all-round; and Mark Rodner—rope climb (undefeated). Additional Reserve lettermen were: Paul Crosson, James Dempsey, Robert Mallory, Robert Nebolsky, Douglas Sprigg, and Major Weber.

"Sacrifices and contributions in this sport are demanding and serious, but the end results of self-respect and self-confidence, respect for the genuine efforts of others, and an aesthetic appreciation of beautiful maneuvers performed by the well-proportioned, disciplined body qualify Gymnastics most highly," Coach Stanley Castelli states as he looks forward to a bright future for Woodward High School Gymnastics.

Placing second in Southwest Ohio district competition and third at the state swim meet, Woodward's swim team did more than their share to boost Blue and White prestige in the athletic field. This year's team, constantly drilled and guided by Coach Melvin Russel, was a power house of experience and strength which continually brought home that highly prized victory for Woodward High. The Blue and White Mermer were an awesome match for any and all comers, boasting talent galore in Orrin Nordstrom (Coca-Cola team star and consistent record smasher) and Stan Dragul—co-captains: Jerry Sapadin, Alden Mosher, Dan Goldberg, Bill Blount, Jeff Deutsch, Jerry Burton, Charles Goldsmith, Dave Norfolk, Bruce Oliver, Gary Thorton, and Jack Yee. All members contributed invaluable support to Woodward's triumphs.

Established records did not stand very long whenever our Bulldogs invaded the water. For instance, when Western Hills captured first in district competition, it was Woodward's Nordstrom who stole the show. Breaking records in both the 150 yard individual medley relay and 200 yard freestyle "Orrie" added point after point to the Bulldog tally along with boys like Mosher, Goldberg, Sapadin and Dragul who captured the 200 yard free style relay and the 50 yard free style to bring the final total to 44.

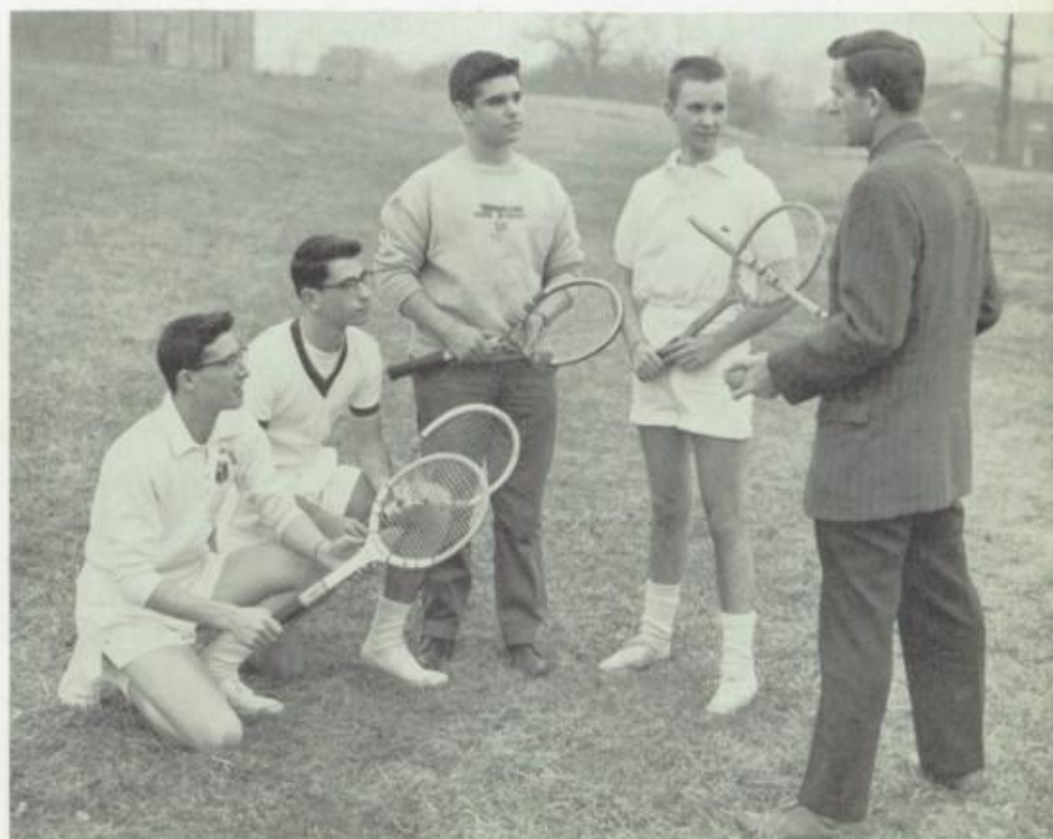

The team also managed to cook up plenty of trouble for McKinley and Berea in State competition and missed grabbing second place by 0.2 of one second or 3 points—amassing 27! Coach Russel has every right to be mighty proud of his boys for they have shouldered the responsibility of defending Woodward's ever growing athletic superiority and have done so in an outstanding fashion that has made every Woodwardite well satisfied.

"Love, love that tennis team"—and that's something Woodwardites would most certainly be happy to do if the Blue and White netmen will only be willing to bring home the victories. If this year's outlook is any indication of the probable turn of events, Woodward's tennis athletes may be more than just competition for local school teams.

The 1958 squad held its own against some rough contenders in order to cop third place in the Public High School League. This year's team is anxiously anticipating an improved season, and the depth of experienced players including returning let-termen Charlie Goldsmith, Mike Hesse, Larry Rosen, and Harley Zwerin is sure to draw that extra spark of needed drive. Inclement weather has been a great handicap to the team's early development and shape-up, but Coach Charles Smith has succeeded in readying the boys. As to the squad line-up, Coach Smith has decided to use Charles Goldsmith and Mike Hesse as his number one and two singles players respectively. Seniors Harley Zwerin and Larry Rosen will comprise the first doubles combination. Vying for the third single spot, left vacant by the graduation of Brian Hersch, are veterans Nate Shmalo, Jerry Horwitz, Paul Richman, and Mike Strauss. A combination of any two of these seasoned and well-trained performers, or perhaps the team of Frank Slesnick and Herb Margolis, will see action in the second doubles position.

Because of deadlines, the WOODWARD TREASURES is unable to report the outcome of the tennis matches, but hope and confidence do ride with each swish of the racquet.

Since the Annual goes to press before the squad is organized, no definite team roster is available. From the boys pictured above will emerge the 1959 Woodward Baseball Team.

That "three strikes you're out at the old ball game" is a statement which Coach Bob Von Holle and his fighting nine diamond-men want very much to come true. Yes, the 1959 Woodward baseball team will be making an all-out effort to put that shiny white apple past all opposing bats (while adding a few runs to its own scores). The loss of all-city pitcher Dale Norris, Bill Lucy, Fred Fricke, Rod Elmore and Ron Croner could have conceivably darkened the Bulldogs' hopeful outlook if it were not for the happy fact that thirteen veterans have returned to provide a strong backbone of experience and top-flight playing ability. These valuable leaders include first baseman Richard Roots, second and pitcher George Bryson, short-stop Al Weisbrod, third Dave De Bord, catchers Bob Shilling and Ken Morgan, pitcher Bill Randolph, utility infielder Randy Stuartmeyer and outfielders Bob Stumpf, Steve Clause and Bob Risch. Along with some promising power from juniors and sophomores these blue and white P. H. S. L. co-champions of the previous year have set their heart on a winning team. Woodward's title hopes will rest primarily on the continual crash of the bat. Coach Von Holle feels that the Bulldogs are as good defensively as any team in the city and notes that "we'll go as far as out hitting takes us."

As for being "out at the old ball game"—this must be left up to the loyalty of each Woodwardite. Coach Von Holle hopes "that a large percentage of the student body will attend these games" and cheer the boys on to win for Woodward.

Organizing too late to have final team roster included in the Annual, the 1959 Woodward Track Team will choose its members from the hopefuls above.

Due to the loss of some of Woodward's finest runners including the best sprinter in town, Teddy Mayer, along with a very fine 880 relay team and other top performers, the prospects for the 1959 track squad are slim indeed, according to Coach Ollie Freese's predictions. Although the Bulldog speedsters made both their coach and school plenty proud last season placing as runners-up in district competition, this year's absence of more fine material leaves a great responsibility on the swift feet of a few highly talented and experienced team members. These boys are Jerry Saxton, Barry Binkley and Earl Weiskettle, who are the only returning lettermen. Within their strides lie Woodward's only chance for points. Coach Freese feels the team needs the fast development of some surprise youngsters from one of their junior high schools.

Withrow, Hughes and possibly Western Hills are loaded with outstanding speed which will prove to be dynamic. There is no speed whatsoever at Woodward out for the track team. The talent is potentially in the school, but the boys "do not seem interested in working hard enough to develop it," says Coach Freese.

The coach feels that the self-satisfaction which is gained from track is the sport's essential value to a boy. Though a poor junior high team last year means that next year, in all probability, will be even worse, definite experience has been gained by each member. With a few reinforcements from outside sources there is still some promise for a good season.

GOLF

Coach Montgomery shows grip to John Hill

A keen eye; a perfect sense of judging distance, speed, wind and slopes; the willingness and patience to work hard to develop form; and the reward of the invigorating out-of-doors and seeing that final putt slip in the back door on the eighteenth green are the features which seem to draw those with much athletic skill and dexterity to golf at Woodward.

The 1959 golf team under the new and able coaching of Mr. Montgomery has been attempting to train for its opening meets. But because of poor weather it has been difficult for the linksmen to shape up with those much needed practice rounds. Thus the team has been somewhat hampered in its effort to slash scores in order to whip a few rather threatening opponents. A great but inevitable disappointment has been the loss of two fine golfers from last year's squad through graduation—Dick Strobel and Keith Diamond.

With the writing of this article Coach Montgomery's '59 team was yet in its early stages of organization and therefore any prophecy on the outlook for the coming season was hardly possible.

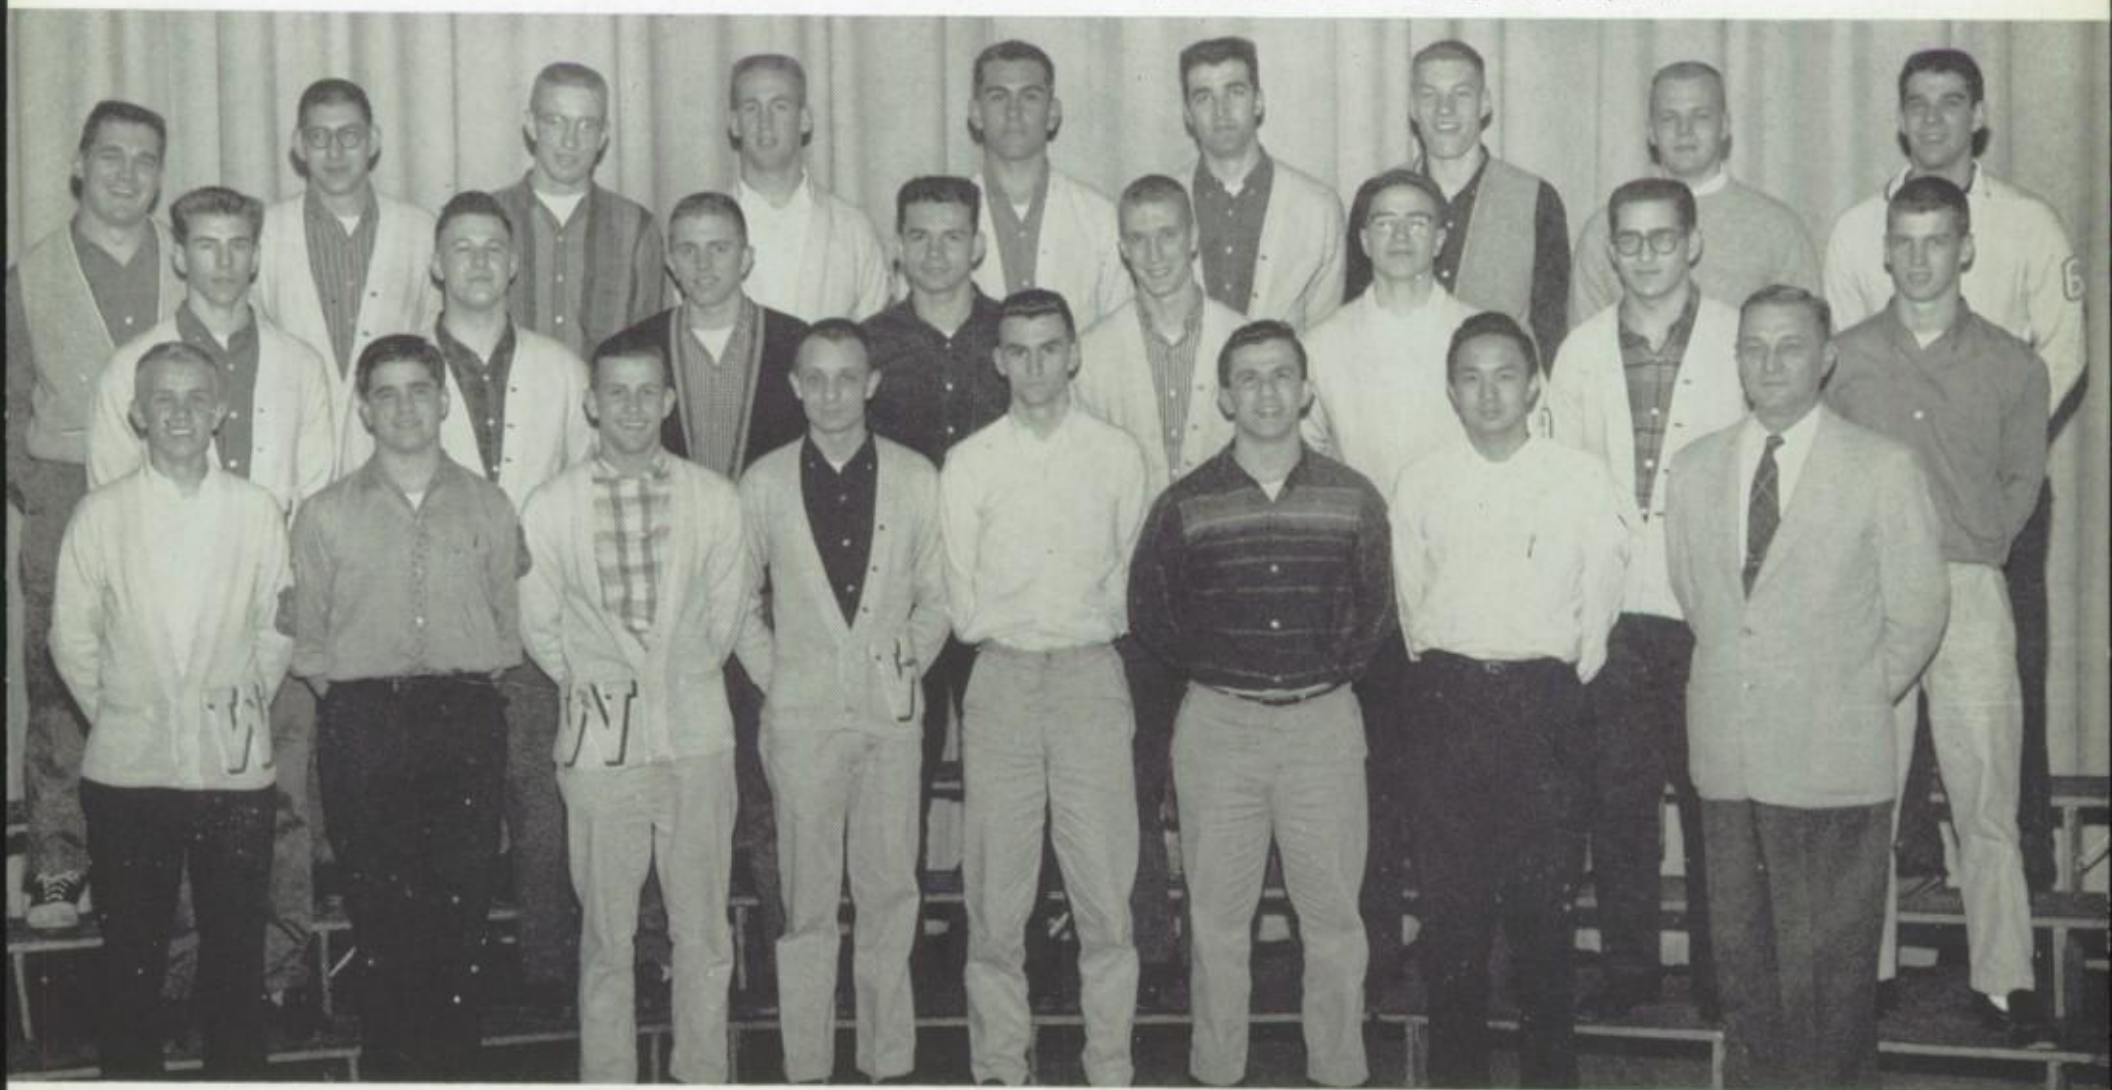

The "W" Club is an honorary athletic organization for those boys who have done well in both athletic and scholastic fields. All members must have earned at least one varsity letter in any of the nine seasonal sports, and retain a 2.1 or better scholastic average to be eligible. Also, the athletic instructor must give a favorable recommendation for each member. The annual Sports Banquet is when the new members are announced. This year's officers are Steve Clause, president; Bob Shilling, vice-president; and Barry Binkley, secretary-treasurer.

BOYS' INTRAMURAL SPORTS

In any school as large as Woodward not all the boys who want to participate in sports can. There simply isn't enough room on the various teams. Realizing this need, the athletic department organized an intramural program. Contrary to the requirements for membership on a varsity or reserve team, no high degree of competency in a particular sport is required for any boy wishing to play in the intramural program. A boy need only want to play.

Under the direction of Mr. Bob Anderson, Woodward science teacher, Boys' Intramural Sports conducts a year-round program designed to offer something appealing to all boys in both junior and senior high. Although no regular attendance at practice periods is required, most boys interested attend regularly, and to add a competitive flavor to the program, tournaments are held in the various sports which make up the program. The spirit and enthusiasm generated during these contests matches the organized spirit at varsity contests. The boys and sports pictured on these pages gives the reader some idea of the areas covered by the program.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

What is more fun than extra-curricular sports? The thrill of the game, win or lose; the enjoyment received from the competition with others; and the good times to be had with others of similar interests are all undeniable.

Realizing the importance of girls' sports, the Girls' Athletic Association gives all Woodward girls the opportunity to participate in the sports in which they are interested.

The club offers highly competitive sports such as hockey, basketball, volleyball, and baseball for those girls who enjoy team sports. Archery, golf, and bowling are offered for the girls who like a recreational sport. And there are specialized clubs, the Modern Dance Club, and Pollywogs, for the girls with these special abilities.

Along with the fun of the organization, the girls get to broaden their personalities through the club. The members develop leadership, a sense of responsibility, and learn to win or lose gracefully.

Field hockey, the most rugged sport in the girls' athletic program, was extremely popular this year. Hockey is a rough and exciting game which takes skill and good team work to have a winning team. Because it is a outdoor game requiring lots of running up and down a large field, it is played from September to mid-November. This year four teams went to the hockey playday to represent our school. The hockey manager is Jan Schimpf.

"Two points for Woodward!" the referee shouts. But the hoopsters getting the cheers in this game are girls. This is not at all unusual, as basketball is one of the most popular G.A.A. activities. In early spring many girls can be found in the gym trying to perfect their hook shots and their guarding.

Although girl's basketball is not as strenuous as the type the boys play, a great deal of skill and co-ordination are acquired while playing the game. But also important is the fact that the players broaden their personalities by gaining good sportsmanship and a sense of teamwork.

VOLLEYBALL

"Up and over" are common words coming from the girls who are playing volleyball. This team sport is played in the gym during January and February. Ten teams were chosen and a tournament was held with a honor team being chosen afterwards. This team was picked from the girls who showed the most skill in playing volleyball as well as good sportsmanship and plenty of team spirit. The annual highlight of the volleyball season is the honor team vs. the women faculty. This year's volleyball manager was Nancy Brown.

One of the most popular individual sports sponsored by the Girls' Athletic Association is archery. Under the managership of Joyce Tavlin, the girls competed against each other during the practices which were held once a week. Then a tournament was held with the top shooters receiving extra points. Archery is very important in that it gives the girls the opportunity to use the individual skills which they have acquired.

SOFTBALL

The robins coming back from the South don't land in trees around Woodward—it's too risky. They might get "de-feathered" by a softball.

Yes, with the first signs of spring many girls at Woodward rush outdoors and start practicing so they will be good when the teams are picked and the competition begins.

Softball is a strenuous sport, and those on the teams soon gain much agility. But aside from this, the girls who play broaden their personalities with each game as they also acquire good sportsmanship.

Pollywogs is the synchronized swimming club for twelfth, eleventh, and tenth grade girls. Students become members of the club by trying out in the fall. Under the new sponsorship of Miss Sprague, the club has cut its membership to approximately 40 girls.

Practices are held every Tuesday throughout the entire year. At these practices new skills are learned and old skills are perfected. The water show, which is in combination with the May Fete, is the highlight of the year for this group.

MODERN DANCE

Movements of grace are put into the form of dancing by the Modern Dance Club. Senior high girls who qualify through tests of grace, rhythm, and poise are eligible for membership.

Maureen McGarvey and Maxine Hendricks occupy the offices of President and Secretary-Treasurer respectively with the assistance of Mrs. Kroencke, faculty advisor. These people aid in the activities of the club, participating in Showcase the City-Wide Symposium, and the G.A.A. Mothers' Tea. Such performances display their talents in dancing.

The words "birdie," "putt," "hole in one," and "swing" are a regular part of the lives of many girls at Woodward. These are the girls who go out for golf.

Golf, a popular G.A.A. activity, is a spring sport that draws girls outside to practice their swing and their putting.

Golf is a recreational sport and is mainly for enjoyment, but still it improves the qualities of good sportsmanship and fair play.

SENIOR HIGH GOLF

JUNIOR HIGH G. A. A.

The Junior High G.A.A. is organized to stimulate interest in girls' activities, to develop sportsmanship, and to offer wholesome activities. All girls in grades seven, eight, and nine are eligible to participate in any G.A.A. activity, sponsored by Mrs. Koehl.

In the early fall, the girls may participate in a team sport soccer, and an individual sport, badminton. Track follows these two activities in late fall. Winter brings first volleyball and then basketball. The spring season offers softball for a team sport and archery for an individual one.

OFFICERS

MEMBERS

JUNIOR BADMINTON, TRACK, ARCHERY

For a trio that rates with junior high girls at Woodward, there is nothing that can beat Badminton, Archery, and Track. Since these are three of the junior high G.A.A.'s most popular sports, many girls go out to have the fun involved with participating.

But whether the girls are batting a "birdie" over a net shooting an arrow at a target, or running a fifty yard dash they broaden their personalities with each effort, since through these sports they develop good sportsmanship.

Dribble, pass, and shoot were the words of the junior high girls as they played basketball. Referee's whistles blew and the girls screamed as the four teams competed in the tournament. Girl's basketball differs from the boy's in that it is not as strenuous and fast. Therefore, it is one of the most popular Junior High G.A.A. sports. Although the girls didn't participate in a playday, they had fun and developed themselves skillfully. The manager of basketball was Marcello Strobel.

JUNIOR G.A.A. SOFTBALL

Standing: Judy Barash, Jean Watson, Miriam Translateur with bat, Manager Laura Lynn Kuhn, Rita Rodner with bat, Ginger Martin, Connie Miller.

Perhaps of all the spring sports, the best attended is the sport of softball. With the spring weather so inviting, the girls find being outside playing ball a delightful experience. Teams are organized by the softball manager, and the individual teams play against each other in a closely contested tournament.

The climax of the softball season is the city-wide softball playday. This is practiced for and looked forward to for many weeks in advance by all the junior leaguers.

Among the varied junior high sports that are so popular among the younger girls at Woodward is soccer. In the fall when all the junior high girls go outside, this is the sport they enjoy.

Needless to say, this game is strenuous. But running down the field gives the girls something besides physical agility. It broadens their personalities by developing good sportsmanship and fair play which will be of value to them all their lives.

JUNIOR HIGH SOCCER

JUNIOR HIGH VOLLEYBALL

The Junior Volleyball season occurred during January and February. Each girl had to be at two out of three practices in order to be placed on a team. A short tournament was played. The main purpose of this tournament was to prepare the eighth and ninth grade girls for the Volleyball Playday, which was held at Woodward. Four teams represented Woodward and showed good hospitality and sportsmanship. The manager for Volleyball was Suzanne Devaud.

The junior high synchronized swimming club is called the Guppies. In the club the basic skills of water ballet are taught and practiced. The purpose of becoming a Pollywog, when in senior high school, is the aim of most Guppies. Practices held throughout the entire school year are not in vain, for swimming in the water show is a perfect climax to the year.
